

WOMAN MURDERED

Her Hacked Limbs Were Found in a Suit Case

Police of Tiverton, R. I., Have Mystery on Their Hands —
Believed That Woman Was Murdered on Sunday — Rest of Body Has Not Been Discovered

TIVERTON, R. I., Oct. 12.—In an extension bag that lay beside the Bulgar marsh road, a lonesome country highway, were found yesterday afternoon the two thighs and one leg of a woman, probably under 50 years of age. The cover of the bag had been removed.

Nearby were pieces of a New Bedford Sunday paper of Oct. 10 and an empty ale bottle.

The discovery was made by George Potter, a special police officer of Tiverton and a substitute letter carrier. Potter notified the Tiverton police, who in turn made known the find to Medical Examiner John Stimson of Tiverton.

Though the discovery was made early yesterday afternoon word was not received until a somewhat late hour, Medical Examiner Stimson went to the scene about 3 o'clock.

The thighs and legs were in an excellent state of preservation, and it was evident from their condition that the dismembering was of very recent date.

Recalls Geary Case

The similarity of the case to that of the famous Susan Geary crime in Boston at once suggested itself to the officials investigating, but at a late hour last night they had made little progress toward unraveling the mystery. The finding of the New Bedford newspaper of Sunday's date is regarded as the most important clue thus far, indicating possibly the place of the murder.

The authorities last night were of the opinion that the woman was murdered in New Bedford, that the thighs and legs were placed in the bag there and brought by wagon or automobile to Tiverton Sunday night.

According to the medical examiner, Dr. Stimson, the supposed murder was committed not more than 12 or 15 hours before the bag with its ghastly contents was discovered.

That a murder was committed and that the cutting was not done by a surgeon or medical student is the belief of the medical examiner, who says that apparently a common hand saw was used to sever the thighs.

Found Close to the Road

The search for other portions of the body in the woods near the place where the bag was found was continued by the police and volunteers all night, but at a late hour no new find had been reported. Should this search still be fruitless today, swamps in the neighborhood will be dragged.

The spot where the bag was found is about 20 feet from the edge of the Bulgar marsh road at a point between 200 and 300 yards from Bliss Four Corners in this town. It is about eight miles from New Bedford. Bulgar marsh road runs from Newport to New Bedford, passing through the outskirts of Fall River, and is much used by automobile parties, especially on Sundays, when various resorts along the road are visited by people from the Massachusetts factory city as well as from Rhode Island towns.

From Bliss Four Corners for a distance of several miles north across the Massachusetts line, the country along this road is sparsely settled, consisting largely of swamp land covered with wild growth. The nearest house to the scene of the finding of the bag is at Bliss Four Corners.

Locality Well Chosen

The locality was apparently well suited to concealing the evidences of a crime, and according to people living in the neighborhood, the body might have lain there days undiscovered, had not the rural letter carrier, George Potter, chanced to go to the spot yesterday afternoon.

Potter was making his rounds, passing along the road, when he noticed a little path leading from the highway into the bushes. He turned off momentarily to go a short distance along this path, and had stepped hardly three paces from the highway when he came upon the bag.

Only one half of the bag was there, the cover being missing, and there were exposed in the letter carrier's view the three portions of human legs, partly wrapped in newspaper.

Later and more careful observation showed these three portions to consist of one entire leg, thick to foot, cut in two pieces at the knee, and the other half leg, thick to knee. The medical examiner, after taking some measurements, found that the leg was 25 inches in length and that the foot was about the size of a No. 3 shoe, and he estimated from these facts that the woman was probably 3 feet 3 inches tall and weighed perhaps 120 pounds.

A large callous on the bottom of the foot indicated that the woman was accustomed to much walking or standing, and suggested that she may have been a working girl.

No Marks of Ownership

Several portions of a New England

Sunday paper of Sunday's date were lying loose near the bag and one portion was loosely wrapped about a section of the leg.

There were no initials on the bag and no mark of any kind by which its ownership could be told. The material of the bag is strawboard covered with heavy cloth, an inexpensive affair such as newly arrived immigrants frequently carry. It is not new, but in fairly good condition. The top of the bag, which fastened to the bottom part by straps running around the whole, could not be found yesterday.

The supposition that the top was used for making away with other parts of the body led the officers to search the woods carefully in the vicinity last night.

There were no footprints along the little path leading from the highway, except those of the letter carrier who made the discovery, and no indication that the bushes in any direction had been disturbed to make way for the passage of any person. The bag with its contents lay in the path.

The authorities believe that the case was thrown from an automobile or carriage into the bushes some time Sunday night and that the fact that it landed in the center of a path in full view of any one who might happen along was unknown to those who desired to dispose of it.

Victim From New Bedford?

In the darkness, the path would be invisible and the bushes would look dense enough and the locality desolate enough to conceal the secret for months. It is such a place as a person bent on hiding the evidences of a crime might readily select.

The medical examiner, Chief of Police Manchester of Tiverton, and Deputy Sheriff Frank Debois of Newport county were all working last night on the theory that the victim came from New Bedford and that the murder was committed Sunday night.

Dr. Stimson was one of the first officials to reach the scene after Potter discovered the bag. Chief Manchester was absent in Newport, and Deputy Sheriff Debois, who was notified, took the medical examiner in his automobile and together they carried the bag and contents, together with the pieces of newspaper and the empty bottle, to the home of Dr. Stimson. There the evidences of the crime remained last night in the custody of the medical examiner, while officers were scouring the country in the hunt for further clues.

Dr. Stimson found that the wounds where the legs were severed were of a ragged nature, not at all like the cut of a surgeon's knife, even though the instrument were wielded by inexperienced hands, such as those of a medical student. The medical examiner thought that a hand saw was probably used in cutting up the body.

Evidence All Toward Murder

The ragged nature of the cuts and the fact that the condition of the limbs showed that death had occurred only 12 hours or so before the discovery by the letter carrier leads Dr. Stimson to discard the theory that these are the ghastly relics of an operating table or of a medical student's experiments.

In the mind of the authorities every circumstance points to murder. The empty ale bottle, if it has any bearing on the case at all, is thought to strengthen the theory that the person who threw away the bag came from New Bedford rather than from the Newport end of the town. There is a roadside on the Rhode Island side of the line where ale may be purchased, but the kind which this bottle contained is not sold there.

People living in the two farmhouses nearest the scene recall that they heard much loud talking and cursing in that direction just before 3 o'clock Sunday night. They put it down as the noise of an over-exhausted Sunday pleasure party, such as is heard not infrequently along that highway on a Sunday, and made no investigation.

A little girl, Lillian Cegeshall, who lives at the home of Martin Gray at Bliss Four Corners, was one of those who heard the noise. A woman who lives in another house along the road remembered two men and a woman carrying a heavy bundle pass along the road, but she was not certain whether it was Sunday night or Saturday night.

The authorities have communicated with the New Bedford police, to ascertain whether a hint of the identity of the woman can be obtained there. Meanwhile the search of the woods and the ponds and swamps within a radius of a mile or two of Bliss Four Corners continues.

NO WOMAN MISSING

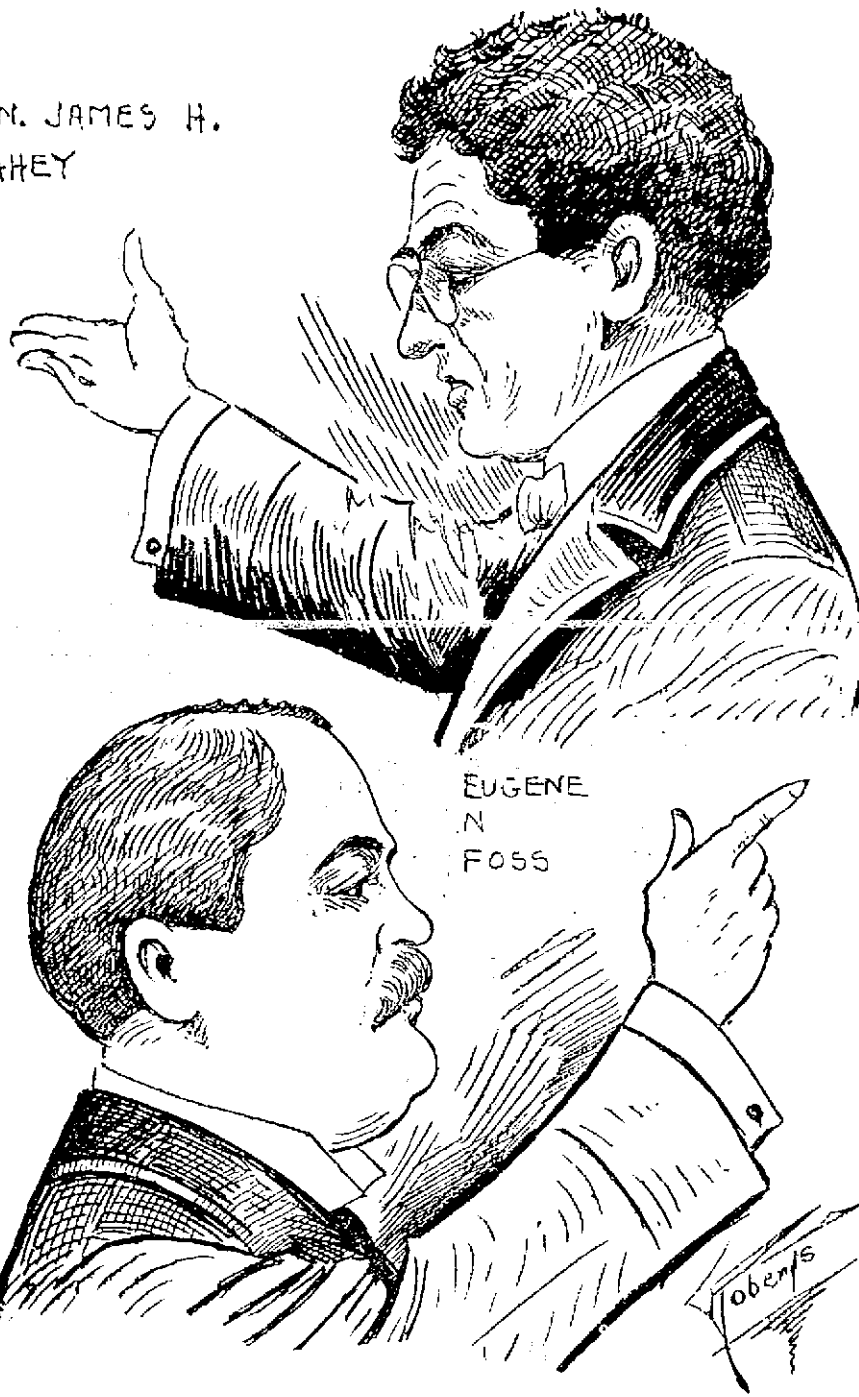

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 12.—The police of Tiverton, R. I., telephoned to the New Bedford police last night regarding the finding of portions of the legs of a woman wrapped in a New Bedford Sunday newspaper, but as the police here had no report of any woman missing, they were unable to throw any light on the mystery.

HON. JAMES H. VAHEY AND EUGENE N. FOSS SPEAKING AT THE DEMOCRATIC RALLY LAST NIGHT

Large and Enthusiastic Meeting Heard Arraignment of Republican Party — Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Congressman Peters, Alderman
Dietrichs, Rep. McNaughton and Lawyer
Tierney — Strong Appeal for United Action in Support of Democratic Ticket

The democratic state campaign was best to kill off the candidates for it, formally opened last evening by a big rally in Associate hall, attended by an audience of nearly 2000 citizens, including quite a sprinkling of republicans. The rally was one of the most successful in many years, for although it was not over until nearly 11 o'clock, nearly all remained.

The democratic state committee, Mr. Vahey remarked jokingly is trying its best to arrange a schedule of rallies that can only be met by means of air ship. Before coming to Lowell, Mr. Vahey addressed large audiences in Haverhill and Lawrence, and did not arrive until 10 o'clock. Eugene N. Foss, candidate for lieutenant-governor, Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Boston, and Congressman Peters of Boston, spoke here first, and then went to the other cities, while Alderman F. S. Dietrich of Cambridge, Rep. M. C. McNaughton of East Boston, and Edward J. Tierney of this city "filled in" until the arrival of Mr. Vahey with interesting speeches. Music was furnished by the Lowell Cadet band, John J. Giblin, leader. On the platform were many well-known democrats, mostly candidates for office in the municipal campaign.

Walter Wilcox Had One Leg
Crushed by Train

Walter Wilcox of South Lowell was run over by a freight car in the south yard of the Boston & Maine railroad about 10:30 o'clock last night and had his right leg crushed so badly that it was necessary to amputate it. He is now at St. John's hospital in a critical condition.

It is alleged that Wilcox while under the influence of liquor lay down with one leg on the track. A freight train, going at a low rate of speed, passed over him, and upon hearing his screams, stopped. The man was found suffering terribly, by the side of the tracks, and the ambulance was summoned.

IN POLICE COURT

Drunken Husband Left Wife and Children to Starve

Owen Grimes, a young man, was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on complaints charging him with drunkenness and feloniously breaking and entering the saloon of Charles L. Marren & Co. in Gorham street and the larceny of $6 in money therefrom. He pleaded guilty to both complaints. Probable cause was found on the more serious charge and he was held for the superior court, while on the charge of drunkenness he was sentenced to four months in jail.

Grimes' case is a sad one. But a few years ago he was one of the prominent young men of this city and was noted for his honesty and temperance, but he started to drink and went from bad to worse.

Sunday afternoon, while under the influence of liquor, it is alleged that he removed the screen from one of the windows in Marren's saloon more for the purpose of securing liquor than anything else. While in the place he found $6 in a cash register and took it.

Trivial Assault
John Malin was charged with assault and battery on Teckla Buscovitch. Teckla alleged that while she was in her house in Middlesex street he gave her a push. The case was uninteresting and long drawn out, and after the testimony had been concluded the court found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $1.

FUNERAL NOTICES

HENRICKSSON.—Died, in this city, Oct. 10th, Severina Henriksson, wife of Alfred Henriksson, aged 56 years, 10 months, 29 days. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Glenage Golt, Jr., 77 Humphrey street, at 2 o'clock. Friends respectfully invited. Burial private. William H. Saunders, undertaker in charge.

Very Sad Case

The case of William Slow, charged with drunkenness, developed into the recitation of the crazy actions of a drunken husband while the wife and three children were left to starve.

Slow was arrested yesterday in Agawam street by Patrolman Frank Moore who said that the defendant's brother-in-law tried to get him to go home, but he refused to do so.

Mrs. Slow said that her husband left her about three weeks ago and since that time he has been living with another woman and has not contributed one cent towards her support. She said that she was discouraged and that for three days she and her children have been without food.

Slow denied that he had been keeping company with another woman but acknowledged that he had spent all the money he had for drink.

He promised to do better in the future, but the wife said that she would not live with him and would go back to the old country as soon as she could get the money.

It was understood that the man had some money which had been left with the keeper when he was placed under arrest and Judge Hadley, addressing one of the officers said: "Go down and see if this man has any money. If he has, I will check the money out of the sale of a few drinks." When the court officer returned to the court however, the judge was informed that the man did not have a cent.

In order that the family might receive some support the court imposed a suspended sentence of four months in jail.

Owing to the fact that the principals in the case were unable to understand English it was necessary to press an interpreter into service and Miss Josephine Ozana, a young woman of about 17 years of age, who has an excellent knowledge of English as well as the mother tongue, was used and she proved to be one of the best interpreters who has appeared in court for years.

Smith Settled
Joseph Smith of Collinsville, while in a drunken condition Saturday night entered the grocery store of Frank Breen in South street and put his fist through a glass showcase, was in court this morning, his case having been continued from yesterday.

A Mr. Breen stated to the court that he did not think that Smith had intended to break the showcase, but did it by accident. He said that the defendant had settled for the damages done and that he did not care about pressing the case.

On the charge of drunkenness Smith was fined $2.

A LOWELL MAN

Goes to Franklin, N. H., to Search for Missing Brother

Henry Desormun of Lowell went to Franklin, N. H., yesterday in search of his brother, Alphonse Desormun, concerning whom there has been some anxiety among his friends. Alphonse had worked in Franklin several months, but went to Laconia several weeks ago. Last week a report came from Laconia, that the young man had disappeared and that his clothes were found by the side of the lake, giving rise to the suspicion that he had drowned himself.

City Marshal Yeaton communicated with his brother, who went to Franklin yesterday to make a search. It was learned at Laconia that Alphonse had sent a message from Hillside house at Ashland to have his clothes forwarded to that place Sunday. The Hillside house was called by telephone and it was ascertained that the young man had been there, but had departed a few days ago.

He stated that he expected some clothes to be sent from Laconia and would come back to the Hillside for them. The brother went to Holderness yesterday afternoon.

The finding of the clothes beside the shore of the lake has been the mystifying feature of the affair and the friends of the young man cannot account for this particular occurrence.

KING INTERVIEWS LEADERS

LONDON, Oct. 12.—King Edward was busily occupied today in conference with the party leaders over the budget. Lords Lansdowne and Balfour, leaders of the opposition respectively in the house of lords and house of commons, were among those received in audience in Buckingham palace. They were in consultation with his majesty for nearly an hour. Soon after their departure Premier Asquith arrived at the palace by appointment and immediately was ushered into the king's private rooms.

SNOW STORM IN MICHIGAN

DETROIT, Oct. 12.—Lower Michigan received its first instalment of real winter weather today. With the temperature hovering between 30 or 40 degrees snow fell intermittently over almost all of the lower part of the state. A thirty mile gale prevailed and made the snow flurries resemble winter blizzards in many places.

TIGERS VS. PIRATES

Conditions Not Very Favorable for Today's Game

DETROIT, Oct. 12.—Cold weather greeted the baseball enthusiasts as they made their way to Bennett park for the fourth game of the world's championship series between Pittsburgh and Detroit, which was scheduled for today. The sun shone brightly, but a brisk and chilling wind prevailed and on the whole it would be hard to imagine a worse day for golf baseball.

The eagerness of the national commission and the players of both teams to avoid any delay in bringing the crucial series to a finish will cause them to make every effort to play the game today.

The conditions were bad yesterday, but today they are worse. Despite the untoward weather conditions, the crowd began to gather early at Bennett park. The brilliant rally of Detroit in the closing innings of yesterday's battle has inspired fresh hope in the breasts of the local supporters, despite the defeat of their team. The 18,271 crowd of yesterday set a new world's record for this city, and it is not thought it will be broken or even equaled today.

Four umpires will be on duty during the remaining games of this series. Two will work in their regular positions behind the ball and on the bases, while the other two will be stationed at the end of the right and left field foul lines. The duties of the latter two will be principally to make decisions regarding balls hit into the crowd. The point as to whether a ball is hit into a temporary stand or a permanent one has been a fine one, and it is difficult for the umpires working far away to tell.

Klem is scheduled to work behind the bat today with Evans on the bases and O'Loughlin and Johnstone doing sentry duty along the outfield foul lines.

The players will share in the receipts of one more game and it is certain they will have more than $50,000 to divide among them. That will be the largest sum ever received by the players from a world's championship series. Dividing it sixty per cent. to the winners and 40 per cent. to the losers it will give them roughly about $30,000 and $20,000. Each player on the winning team will receive close to $2000 and the losers will get more than $1000 each.

The Detroit players are determined to win the next game played, because if they do not they will be practically out of the running. Manager Jennings figures that if his team can win the next game and tie the series with two victories each, Detroit will have an excellent chance of winning the championship.

It is probable Mullin will be the next Detroit pitcher while Charles Adams, the hero of the first game at Pittsburgh, will probably be selected by Clarke.

Following is the lineup:

Pittsburgh—Berne, 3b; Leach, cf; Clarke, lf; Wagner, ss; Miller, 2b; Moriarty, 3b; T. Jones, 1b; Schmidt, c; Mullin, p.

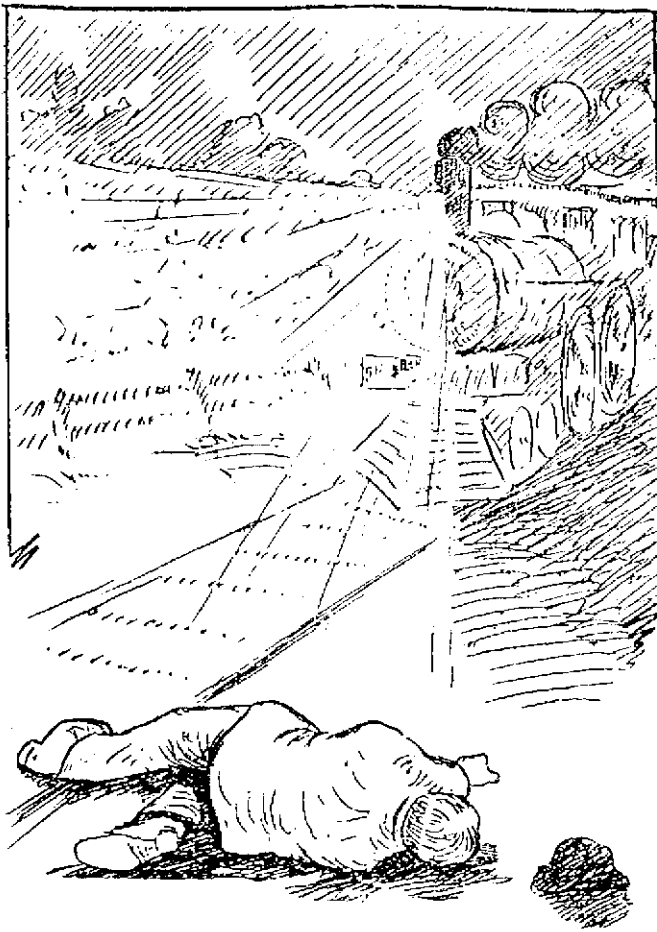

The thermometer registered slightly above the freezing point during the morning, but the national commission said that nothing short of a blizzard would stop the game. There are indications of the snow storm now prevailing in the western part of the state arriving here before the game can be finished.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Edward W. Bedford, a Canadian, was charged today in the Bow street court on his own confession with the murder of Ethel Kinrade at Hamilton, Ont., and remanded for a week to allow inquiries to be made into several peculiarities of the case. Bedford gave himself up yesterday. His signed confession which was read in court states that he murdered the Kinrade girl in 1908, whereas the murder occurred in 1909. The confession alleges that Bedford met a man in Toronto whose name he did not know and they went to Hamilton where his companion helped him to find the house and gave him $500 to shoot Ethel Kinrade. Another voluminous confession in the hands of the police is understood to coincide with the circumstances of the murder with the exception of dates. A description of the murderer possessed by the Scotland Yard officials does not tally with Bedford.

FLORIDA COAST Portion of It Escaped Storm

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 12.—The storm which devastated Key West and the peninsula off Florida last night has swept out into the Atlantic ocean today, according to the local weather bureau and is headed in a northeasterly direction. North of Miami the Florida coast escaped. Reports here indicate little damage except to property on the east coast. On the Flapier railroad, known as the Florida east coast line, the storm had been expected, and according to officials here, the men had been withdrawn from the more dangerous points. From Miami come reports of great property loss with possible damage to shipping. Key West seems to have been the greatest sufferer. Communication was still possible between that point and Jacksonville at 10 o'clock today. Advances from the weather bureau from the stricken city to Observer Mitchell at Jacksonville today said that the storm was at its worst at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. That there was no great loss of life and more destruction of property was due to the prompt warnings of the weather bureau.

DEATHS

PATCH.—Mrs. Kate Whiting Patch, wife of Dr. Frank W. Patch of Framingham and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Whiting of that town, but formerly of this city, died Sunday in her home after an illness of typhoid fever. Mrs. Patch leaves a very wide circle of friends in this city to whom the news of her death will come as a sad shock. She was a woman of great loveliness of character, whose manifold charms endeared her to all. She was born in New Jersey in 1870, and subsequently lived with her family in Wellesley Hills and in Lowell. For several years she has been a well known writer of stories and verse, and also produced one or two books of notable merit—notably "Middleway," a charming story of village life.

CARNEGIE COMPANY

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12.—The Carnegie steel company will hand out to its employees on Oct. 15 the largest payroll since the mid-monthly pay of October 1907, during this week. The payroll in its Allegheny county plants alone will aggregate more than $350,000.

The number of men put to work during the last month, together with the increased working hours, has brought the working capacity up to 97 per cent. The National Tube Works in its four plants in Allegheny county will also hand out the greatest payroll since the plant was well informed on all municipal affairs, from the conduct of which rightly conceived ideas of morality could not be divorced.

Mr. Lindsay was assisting Ferdinand Winter, counsel for Debevoise Smith and Charles R. POLICE ARE BUSY Trying to Solve the Murder Case at Tiverton, R. I.

TIVERTON, R. I., Oct. 12.—Efforts to solve the mystery surrounding the finding of part of the dismembered lower limbs of a woman in a suit case in an outlying part of this city yesterday were renewed with increased diligence by the police today. Although a search of the section in which the find was made yesterday was continued through the night and was unavailing, police went to the scene again today in the hope of finding some possible clue which had been overlooked. An extensive and systematic inquiry was begun outside the town in an attempt to discover the murderer if murder was committed and if possible to establish the identification of the woman whose limbs were found here. It is thought that the limbs were taken from New Bedford or some other city the police basing their argument on the finding of a New Bedford newspaper of Sunday's date and also of the empty bottle bearing the label of a New Bedford firm which were picked up near the suit case.

Assistance has also been rendered by the police of Fall River, Haverhill, Boston, Providence and Newport while a small army of newspapermen have reached town so that the local officers are receiving plenty of advice. Chief Manchester went to Newport at noon to consult personally with the officials there and before leaving he stated that so far as he knew all the clues had been unearthed.

Chief of Police Manchester said today that an early morning search of the woods near the scene of yesterday's discovery had disclosed nothing and that the police expect to drag Safford pond, a small body of water about 500 yards from the place where the suitcase was found. The New Bedford police have co-operated in every possible way toward unraveling the mystery, and last night canvassed the mill section of the city without discovering anyone who knew of any missing woman.

The cover of the suitcase was found during the forenoon about thirty feet within the edge of the woods and a few hundred feet from the spot where the other part of the case and the woman's limbs were found yesterday. Four empty ale bottles glimmered in the bottle found yesterday were near the cover. The suitcase was of the telescopic style. The bottles did not bear the name of a New Bedford dealer, as had been previously reported, but had the label of a Boston brewery which manufactures a widely known brand of ale.

Questions Answered by Doctor

ABOUT RHEUMATISM

This Knowledge Will Help You

The questions were put to an able physician, a graduate of Harvard College Medical School, who was trained in the Massachusetts General Hospital and has practiced medicine for many years.

Here we publish the questions and answers.

Question—How do people know when they have rheumatism?

Answer—The most usual symptoms are: Pains in joints, shooting pains, pains in back or groin, stiffness in muscles, cracking or snapping of joints, swellings of joints or feet, painful urination, sharp pain or dull ache of kidneys, pain in stomach, especially after eating.

Question—What is rheumatism?

Answer—It is perhaps the most painful disease that ever comes to a large number of people. It is the poisoning of the system by uric acid, the building of poisonous uric acid in the joints and tissues. Often also in the muscles and tendons.

Question—What causes these poisons?

Answer—It is a combination of stomach, bowel and kidney trouble, which in turn causes a blood trouble. Question—Just how does this cause the pain?

Answer—First the stomach is partly failed in its work. Sometimes because of too much rich food and sometimes for quite the opposite reason—poor living.

The work of the stomach is to turn food into nourishment that the blood can take up and carry all over the body and which it makes into tissue, muscle, bone, etc.

But when the stomach once gets out of order it does not quite complete its work. Part of the food eaten ferments and putrefies, making a poisonous substance.

Now let us follow a drop of blood in its trip through the body. From the stomach it takes up its little load of nourishment to be taken throughout the body, leaving a little nourishment here, a little there as needed, and so on just as a railroad train leaves passengers and baggage along its route.

But the railroad train also takes on passengers and baggage as it goes along and comes back with just as many passengers and just as much baggage as it started out with. Just the same way with the blood. It takes out to the body nourishment, it brings back about an equal load that it has collected along its trip. This load that it brings back consists of worn out dead tissues and poisons. The blood leaves most of this load in the kidneys. The duty of the kidneys is then to throw this dead matter out of the body through the lungs and urine. The blood thus relieved of its burden passes on, receives its new load of nourishment from the stomach and starts again on its trip through the body. This work of the blood continues as long as life lasts.

Nature intends that the burden of the blood shall be evenly balanced, that it shall carry out from the stomach just so much nourishment and bring back to the kidneys just so much waste matter.

Now let us see what happens when the stomach is deranged. By allowing some of the food to putrefy and ferment a certain amount of poisons form. These mix with the nourishment and get into the blood.

At first the blood does not drop any of these poisons along the system but holds them all for the kidneys.

In this way when the blood gets to the kidneys it is overloaded with poisons. It has all the poisons it has gathered from the body, and it also has the extra poisons that the stomach put into it in the first place.

At first the kidneys handle the extra poisons without complaint. But the deranged stomach keeps putting more and more poisons into the blood. This finally overworks the poison handling ability of both kidneys and bowels.

Then the kidneys refuse to receive all the poison that the blood brings to them.

So the blood leaves with the kidneys as much of the poisons as the blood will take and the blood keeps the rest.

So now every time the blood takes its trip through the body it has more and more poison in it.

If this continued the poison would take all the room. There would be no room left for nourishment and very soon death would come.

But nature always prefers sickness to death so the blood begins to drop off some of the extra load of poisons at different parts of the body.

Usually these poisons are dropped out at the joints—sometimes the finger joints first, sometimes first at the knees, the elbows, shoulder blades, etc.

These gatherings at the joints are what cause the pains of rheumatism.

In advanced cases the flesh can be cut open and these poisonous deposits scraped away from the joints. But what is the use, because it would require a painful and dangerous surgical operation on every joint and then the relief would be only for a short time until the poisons gathered again.

Question—Can rheumatism be cured?

Answer—Yes, rheumatism can now be cured.

Question—What will cure it?

Answer—A combination of two medicines. One must be a tonic on which the tonic theory of treatment can be carried out. At the same time a specific treatment to stop the formation of more poisons and having the remarkable quality of increasing the purifying power of the blood. It must also stimulate and strengthen the action of the kidneys and bowels so they can handle the extra load of poison.

Question—Just how will this treatment work out?

Answer—First the tonic treatment will build up the whole body. It will vitinize and put new life into the system.

Then the rheumatic treatment will get in its great work to best advantage. First it will neutralize the poison in the stomach so it will pass out through the bowels instead of getting into the blood.

Then it will increase the blood's purifying capacity so it will begin to pick up the rheumatic poisons from the joints and bring them into the kidneys and bowels to be thrown out of the system.

The tonic treatment and the rheumatic treatment combined will keep the kidneys strengthened and the bowels active so they will easily do their part in taking the rheumatic poisons that the blood brings in and cast them out of the body forever. And the sufferer will be rid of his pains and aches and restored to health.

Question—What tonic and rheumatic treatment do you recommend?

Answer—The best tonic is the medicinal wine of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It is the only medicine containing one dollar's worth of Blood Wine worth its weight in gold as a health tonic.

The only perfect rheumatic specific is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It is the only medicine containing the powerful medicine to cure rheumatism.

Where can the people get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and Dr. Williams' Rheumatic Pills?

Answer—The United States Dispensary, 100 N. W. Cor. 1st and 2nd Sts., Boston, Mass., has a full supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and Dr. Williams' Rheumatic Pills on hand. DEMOCRATIC RALLY

Vahey and Foss Addressed Big Meeting Last Night

HON. JAMES H. VAHEY

HON. JAMES H. VAHEY AND EUGENE N. FOSS SPEAKING AT THE DEMOCRATIC RALLY LAST NIGHT

Large and Enthusiastic Meeting Heard Arraignment of Republican Party — Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Congressman Peters, Alderman Dietrich, Rep. McNaughton and Lawyer Tierney — Strong Appeal for United Action in Support of Democratic Ticket

The democratic state campaign was formally opened last evening by a big rally in Associate hall, attended by an audience of nearly 2000 citizens. Including quite a sprinkling of republicans.

The rally was one of the most successful in many years, for although it was not over until nearly 11 o'clock nearly all remained.

The democratic state committee, Mr. Vahey remarked jokingly is trying its best to kill off the candidates for it has arranged a schedule of rallies that can only be met by means of air ship.

Before coming to Lowell, Mr. Vahey addressed large audiences in Haverhill and Lawrence, and did not arrive until 10:30 o'clock. Eugene N. Foss, candidate for lieutenant-governor, Hon. John F. Fitzgerald of Boston and Congressman Peters of Boston, spoke here first, and then went to the other cities, while Alderman F. C. Dietrich of Cambridge, Rep. M. C. McNaughton of East Boston and Edward J. Tierney of this city "filled in" until the arrival of Mr. Vahey, with interesting speeches. Music was furnished by the Lowell Cadet band, John J. Giblin, leader. On the platform were many well known democrats, mostly candidates for office in the municipal campaign.

Called to Order. The rally was called to order by Humphrey O'Sullivan, who said that the democracy had come together under the most auspicious circumstances. It is my deliberate opinion, said Mr. O'Sullivan, that the prospects for democratic success are growing brighter every minute and that victory is within our grasp. We need a change in our commonwealth. The longer we remain the slaves of one party the worse for the state. Let us put the two parties on the competitive list. See what the party of the working people can do. Mr. O'Sullivan then introduced as the presiding officer Daniel J. Donahue.

Mr. Donahue received a warm welcome and he spoke briefly in part as follows: This is a crucial time in state affairs for there are momentous questions to be met and Massachusetts today needs able and strong men to defend her interests. Recently we saw the spectacle of a republican president dictating his own successor and then came a robber tariff approved by our own president. To insure your own success cast your ballot for representatives of the people rather than for the republican proxies of the trusts and monopolies. The democratic party stands for the simple elemental truths on which this country was founded. It stands on the platform of Mr. Sinai, the 10 commandments. There is a glorious ray of promise in the sky.

WOMAN MURDERED

Her Hacked Limbs Were Found in a Suit Case

Police of Tiverton, R. I., Have Mystery on Their Hands — Believed That Woman Was Murdered on Sunday — Rest of Body Has Not Been Discovered

TIVERTON, R. I., Oct. 12.—In an extension bag that lay beside the Bulgarman road, a lone country highway, were found yesterday afternoon the two thighs and one leg of a woman, probably under 50 years of age. The cover of the bag had been removed.

Nearby were pieces of a New Bedford Sunday paper of Oct. 10 and an empty ale bottle.

The discovery was made by George Potter, a special police officer of Tiverton and a substitute letter carrier. Potter notified the Tiverton police, who in turn made known the find to Medical Examiner John Stimson of Tiverton.

Though the discovery was made early yesterday afternoon word was not received until a somewhat late hour. Medical Examiner Stimson went to the scene about 2 o'clock.

The thighs and legs were in an excellent state of preservation, and it was evident from their condition that the dismembering was of very recent date.

Recalls Geary Case. The similarity of the case to that of the famous Susan Geary crime in Boston at once suggested itself to the official investigating, but at a late hour last night they had made little progress toward unraveling the mystery.

The finding of the New Bedford newspaper of Sunday's date is regarded as the most important clue thus far, indicating possibly the place of the murder.

The authorities last night were of the opinion that the woman was murdered in New Bedford, that the thighs and legs were placed in the bag there and brought by wagon or automobile to Tiverton Sunday night.

According to the medical examiner, Dr. Stimson, the supposed murder was committed not more than 12 or 15 hours before the bag with its ghastly contents was discovered.

That a murder was committed and that the cutting was not done by the experienced hands of a surgeon or medical student is the belief of the medical examiner, who says that apparently a common hand saw was used to sever the thighs.

Found Close to the Road. The search for other portions of the body in the woods near the place where the bag was found was continued by the police and volunteers all night, but at a late hour no new find had been reported. Should this search still be fruitless today, swamps in the neighborhood will be dragged.

The spot where the bag was found is about 20 feet from the edge of the Bulgarman road at a point between 200 and 300 yards from Bliss Four Corners in this town. It is about eight miles from New Bedford. Bulgarman road runs from Newport to New Bedford, passing through the outskirts of Fall River, and is much used by automobile parties, especially on Sundays, when various resorts along the road are visited by people from the Massachusetts factory city as well as from Rhode Island towns.

From Bliss Four Corners for a distance of several miles north across the Massachusetts line, the country along this road is sparsely settled, consisting largely of swamp land covered with wild growth. The nearest house in the scene of the finding of the bag is at Bliss Four Corners.

Locality Well Chosen. The locality was apparently well suited to concealing the evidences of a crime, and according to people living in the neighborhood, the body might have lain there undiscovered, had not the rural letter carrier, George Potter, chanced to go to the spot yesterday afternoon.

Potter was making his rounds, passing along the road, when he noticed a little path leading from the highway into the bushes. He turned off momentarily to go a short distance along this path, and had stepped hardly three paces from the highway when he came upon the bag.

Only one half of the bag was there, the cover being missing, and there were exposed to the letter carrier's view the three portions of human legs, partly wrapped in newspaper.

Later and more careful observation showed these three portions to consist of one entire leg, thigh to foot, cut in two places at the knee, and the other half leg, thigh to knee.

The foot is quite small. The medical examiner, after taking some measurements, found that the leg was 25 inches in length and that the foot was about the size for a No. 3 shoe, and he estimated from these facts that the woman was probably 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighed perhaps 120 pounds.

A large callous on the bottom of the foot indicated that the woman was accustomed to much walking or standing, and suggested that she may have been a working girl.

No Marks of Ownership. Several portions of a New England Sunday paper of Sunday's date were lying near the bag and one portion was loosely wrapped about a section of the leg.

There were no initials on the bag and no mark of any kind by which its ownership could be told. The material of the bag is strawboard covered with heavy cloth, an inexpensive affair such as newly arrived immigrants frequently carry. It is not new, but in fairly good condition. The top of the bag, which fastened to the bottom part by straps running around the whole, could not be found yesterday.

The supposition that the top was used for making away with other parts of the body led the officers to search the woods carefully in the vicinity last night.

There were no footprints along the little path leading from the highway, except those of the letter carrier who made the discovery, and no indication that the bushes in any direction had been disturbed to make way for the passage of any person. The bag with its contents lay in the path.

The authorities believe that the case was thrown from an automobile or carriage into the bushes some time Sunday night, and that the fact that it lodged in the center of the path in full view of any one who might happen along was unknown to those who desired to dispose of it.

Victim From New Bedford? In the darkness, the path would be invisible and the bushes would look dense enough and the locality desolate enough to conceal its secret for months. It is such a place as a person bent on hiding the evidences of a crime might readily select.

The medical examiner, Chief of Police Manchester of Tiverton, and Deputy Sheriff Frank Deblols of Newport county were all working last night on the theory that the victim came from New Bedford and that the murder was committed Sunday night.

Dr. Stimson was one of the first officials to reach the scene after Potter discovered the bag. Chief Manchester was absent in Newport, and Deputy Sheriff Deblols, who was notified, took the medical examiner in his automobile and together they carried the bag and contents, together with the pieces of newspaper and the empty bottle, to the home of Dr. Stimson. There the evidences of the crime remained last night in the custody of the medical examiner, while officers were scouring the country in the hunt for further clues.

Dr. Stimson found that the wounds where the legs were severed were of a ragged nature, not at all like the cut of a surgeon's knife, even though the instruments were wielded by inexperienced hands, such as those of a medical student. The medical examiner thought that a hand saw was probably used in cutting up the body.

Evidence All Toward Murder. The ragged nature of the cuts and the fact that the condition of the limbs showed that death had occurred only 12 hours or so before the discovery by the letter carrier leads Dr. Stimson to discard the theory that these are the ghastly relics of an operating table or of a medical student's experiments.

In the mind of the authorities every circumstance points to murder.

The empty ale bottle, if it has any bearing on the case at all, is thought to strengthen the theory that the person who threw away the bag came from New Bedford rather than from the Newport end of the road. There is a roadhouse on the Rhode Island side of the line where ale may be purchased, but the kind which this bottle contained is not sold there.

People living in the two farmhouses nearest the scene recall that they heard much loud talking and cursing in that direction just before 6 o'clock Sunday night. They put it down as the noise of an over-exhausted Sunday pleasure party, such as is heard not infrequently along that highway on a Sunday, and made no investigation.

A little girl, Lillian Coggeshall, who lives at the home of Mrs. Gray at Bliss Four Corners, was one of those who heard the noise. A woman who lives in another house along the road remembered two men and a woman carrying a heavy bundle pass along the road, but she was not certain whether it was Sunday night or Saturday night.

The authorities have communicated with the New Bedford police, to ascertain whether a hint of the identity of the woman can be obtained there. Meanwhile the search of the woods and the ponds and swamps within a radius of a mile or two of Bliss Four Corners continues.

NO WOMAN MISSING. NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 12.—The police of Tiverton, R. I., telephoned to the New Bedford police last night regarding the finding of portions of the legs of a woman wrapped in a New Bedford Sunday newspaper, but as the police here had no report of any woman missing, they were unable to throw any light on the mystery.

BOARD OF POLICE

May Elect a Superintendent at Tonight's Meeting

The reinstated board of police will hold its first regular meeting, since its temporary removal, at 8 o'clock tonight, and this particular meeting bids fair to be one of the most interesting held since the board went into office. While the members of the board are non-communicative as to what they intend to do, it is expected that some very important business will be transacted.

In the first place it is thought that the all important question of the superintendency of the police department will be announced.

Shortly before the retirement of the board by the mayor the members placed Supt. Wm. B. Moffatt on the pension list and placed Deputy Supt. Redmond Welch in the office as acting superintendent. Deputy Welch, who is thoroughly versed in police matters, filled the office of acting superintendent in a capable manner for several months, and while there were no radical changes made he conducted affairs in such a manner that the activity and vigilance of the department was upheld in a creditable manner.

When the regular board was removed and the mayor named a board in its stead, one of the first acts was to remove Deputy Welch from acting as head of the department back to his position and placing Lieut. James Brosnan at the head of the department.

As acting superintendent nobody has found any fault with Mr. Brosnan's work.

It is understood that when Supt. Moffatt was retired that the position was offered to Deputy Welch inasmuch as he was in line of promotion, but owing to the unsettled conditions he declined the promotion. Now that the board has been reinstated and that there is little or no danger of removal as a result of political changes the duty may accept the promotion if he wishes to do so.

One of the matters which is being discussed rather freely of late is whether or not the board will rescind the action of the temporary board in making certain changes and returning to office men who formerly occupied the positions. The temporary board, or as it has been called "the mayor's board" made a number of changes in the department during the few weeks that it held office, changes being made inside and outside of the police station. The first thing that the regular board did after it was formed was to return to duty the old liquor squad and as it looks at present time all or nearly all of the changes made by the temporary board will be reversed and the assignment in the department before the board left office may be revived.

Another matter which has caused a great deal of controversy is the complaints against hotel keepers and common victuallers relative to the alleged violations of the law, complaints having been brought during the time that Simon B. Harris was at the head of the board. Now while the acts of the temporary board have gone to be taken as official acts and cannot be ignored by the reinstated board, there is a question as to what shall be done with these cases. The members of the board have nothing to say on the matter, one of them stating to the writer this morning that the board had not yet reached those matters.

mills is equally true of all the mills throughout New England.

Congressman Peters

Congressman Peters spoke mainly of the tariff and said in part: No question is finally settled until it is settled right. To this maxim the tariff is no exception. That the tariff bill passed by the last congress is a branch of trust by the party which obtained the people's votes by promising a downward revision of the tariff can be doubted by no one who will pause to consider the measure.

The present tariff bill is satisfactory to no one except its direct beneficiaries, who are but a small minority of the people of our country. Trying under the high duties of the Dingley law and the high cost of living, the demand for a lowering of those rates became more and more insistent until even the high protectionists who were the controlling factors in the republican party were obliged to give heed to it. A plank for revision of the tariff was inserted in the republican national platform, and the president himself in his speeches on the subject showed that he intended, as the public understood, that the revision should be downward. The forces of protection, however, entrenched in the house, showed their power in the bill which was produced by the ways and means committee, and the bill as reported to the house showed an increase over the Dingley tariff rates. This increase was greatly added to in the senate. While the committee was in conference, the president used his influence to lower the rates, but the final bill as reported by the conference committee placed on the statute book a law which carries higher duties than the law which it superseded, the rates of which the party in power pledged itself to lower.

Massachusetts is particularly dependent upon her manufacturing industries. Fourth in rank of our states in manufacturing, she derives almost none of her wealth from agriculture and mining. The industry, intelligence and capabilities of her people, applied in the manufacturing industries and in commerce, furnish the bulk of her resources. To have free play for their efforts, her welfare insists upon a tariff bill which shall allow for her industries raw materials and for her people a cheapening of the cost of living.

The city of Lowell, fifth manufacturing city in our state, shows most strikingly the effect of the tariff on her industries. The latest bulletin, No. 101, of the department of commerce and labor, shows the cost of the materials taken as official acts and cannot be ignored by the reinstated board, there is a question as to what shall be done with these cases. The members of the board have nothing to say on the matter, one of them stating to the writer this morning that the board had not yet reached those matters.

F. S. Deltrich

F. S. Deltrich of Cambridge, a well known member of the Middlesex bar, was the next speaker, and he confined himself to state issues. Mr. Deltrich said: "There are issues nearer home to be considered in this state campaign, and perhaps the principal one is the unfair manner in which this state has been gerrymandered. While the number of republican voters in this state is about one-fifth greater than the number of republicans, both branches of the legislature are overwhelmingly republican. The city of Cambridge, in which I reside, is a democratic city, and yet we have only two democratic representatives, while there are six republican. At the state house there are 60 democratic representatives out of 240, while in the senate there are 5 or 6 out of 40. Similar conditions prevail in Lowell. There's a crafty hand manipulating the making up of those districts. He is not your governor, but the Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, king of the old bay state and Nantucket, in the legislature you can see how perfectly this king has his machinery in operation. Try to get a bill in the interest of the people through the legislature and see how quickly the lobby gets the necessary number of votes against it. I once attempted to get a bill for cheaper telephone rates through the legislature and I soon found that there was an influence working against me that I could not overcome. Elect your senator and representatives. Elect Draper and Monahan and your other local candidates, men on whom you can depend, and who will not be swayed by the lobbyists of the old bay state and Nantucket."

Rep. McNaughton

Rep. M. C. McNaughton of East Boston was next called upon and he took up the matter of the proposed bill to hold off suits until the plaintiffs, weary of the expense, are willing to settle for anything. The corporations can get whatever legislation they desire through the republican legislature. In the case of strikes they are working with misleading advertisements telling them there is no labor troubles at their plants, but they go to the legislature and get a law through forbidding strikers to approach these deceived men and speak to them on the truth of the situation. The United States Supreme bench and Judge Taft have both said that labor has absolute right to do this but the Massachusetts legislature denies that it has that right. Look at the women and miners' bill. The anti-labor interests have had it referred to the new legislature and they will keep it from becoming law so long as you fail to elect democrats, men who have the interests of the working people at heart. Mr. McNaughton also referred to the income tax.

Lawyer Tierney

Edward J. Tierney was warmly welcomed when introduced by the chairman and he had spoken but a few moments when Candidate Vahey appeared at the rear of the hall. Mr. Tierney quickly observing a grave way with a graceful reference to the late arrival.

Hon. James H. Vahey

Mr. Vahey accompanied by Congressman McNulty of the democratic committee was widely cheered as he proceeded to the platform and he was immediately introduced by Chairman Donahue.

In opening, Mr. Vahey said: "In a few days, remain for registration. I ask you to give your attention to the important feature of the campaign, there is time. There are two essentials in all elections, to get the names on the voting list and to get out the vote on election day. That is all I am saying to you today. It is not a national campaign and that national issues are not to be considered. What I am saying is to be decided on the single issue. Has the present administration been a success? I am willing to meet the governor on every platform or on any platform and discuss the record of his administration. I believe we could point out to him that his administration has been a success in every particular except one, and that is sympathy with the people and aspirations of a large majority of our people."

THE TARIFF ISSUE

Is Likely to Aid the Democratic Candidates in This State

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Many British-American citizens of Massachusetts, who are almost to a man republicans, are likely to bolt the party nominations this year because of the tariff issue and the failure of efforts for reciprocity with Canada, it is claimed. It looks as if Valley and Foss would get many of their votes according to the number of those who are dissatisfied with the way things are going.

John A. Campbell of East Boston, a prominent republican, said in reply to a question as to the rumors that many British-Americans would vote the democratic ticket this year, that he had heard the rumors, but could not give a categorical answer because he had not sufficient information.

But he said he was satisfied there exists a widespread indifference and utter lack of political enthusiasm among the British-Americans this year, due to several causes. One, he said, was the disappointment of these people with Mayor Illibard's administration and another was the impression which British-Americans have that the republican party has absolutely failed to keep its platform promise to revise the tariff by a substantial reduction. They feel that since the election of President Taft the control of the party has swung into the hands of the stand-pat conservatives.

Conditions Have Changed
Republicans, he said, overlooked the fact that conditions change rapidly, and they trenchantly themselves behind the traditions and customs of the past, as if they were perpetually sacred. It is idle, he remarked, to talk of past conditions as fitted for the present. They were suited for their times only. Former legislators simply set their posts for a limited time and for a specific purpose, and they are out of date for present circumstances.

Mr. Campbell said, regarding a rumor that Gov. Draper had given serious offense once to the British-Americans, that the occasion was when the Intercolonial club, of which he was president, dedicated its new building which cost more than $120,000. Gov. Draper was ill and Lieut. Gov. Draper was acting governor. The event was regarded by the British-Americans as an act of insubordination and a slight to the distinguished guests of the hour.

TWO ECONOMICAL CURES BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"My case was a very bad ulcer sore on my ankle and I was laid up three months with it. I was reading an advertisement in the newspaper one day about the Cuticura Remedies so I purchased a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and a large bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. After using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Resolvent, by washing twice a day with the soap and using the other remedies as directed. Before I used the Cuticura Remedies my sore was getting worse all the time under other treatments. Furthermore we have a baby boy here and we have found that Cuticura Soap has been a fine thing for him. He had scurf on his head and we tried every way to remove it but failed until we used the Cuticura Soap which removed it almost at once. George M. Hall, Brimston, N. Y., Dec. 24, 1908."

I still use it occasionally and I always have Cuticura Soap on hand. The cure was complete. Mrs. Amy Geisler, 2018 South Seventh St., Omaha, Neb., Sept. 23 and Oct. 8, 1908."

TWO NOTED CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS PRES. HAMILTON WHO IGNORE BOSTON EDICT

MRS. D. M. GILBERT

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Despite the edict of the mother church, as the First Christian Science church in Boston is called, Mrs. Augustus E. Stetson, reader of the First Christian Science church of New York city, continues to occupy her position. It is believed by Christian Scientists, both in Boston and New York, that a crisis in the affairs of the organization is near at hand and that legal steps soon will be taken.

FORTUNE FOR PEACE

Edwin Ginn to Leave $1,000,000 in His Will

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Edwin Ginn, the publisher, has made provision in his will that upon his death $1,000,000 shall become available for the cause of universal peace. Moreover, Mr. Ginn will contribute $50,000 annually to the peace cause during the remaining years of his life.

For several years Mr. Ginn has been at work interesting business men, and among others has found Andrew Carnegie a firm believer in the project. Mr. Carnegie is likely to give a handsome sum that may be added to the fund, Mr. Ginn says.

Mr. Ginn has labored independently of the organized peace advocates. He says:

"It is my aim to unite the business men of the world in a great permanent association which shall have for its object the suppression of war. Until now men have organized to kill one another. This organization that I propose will aim to keep men from killing each other."

"It is not our desire at present to bring statesmen or politicians into the fold. With the money I shall give and whatever others may add I hope we shall be able to arouse enough interest to bring the governments of the world to our point of view. When the business interests of the world demand peace the governments will yield."

"When we have won over the governments we shall have one international army to preserve the peace of the world. And as the nations gain confidence in this international army the independent forces will be gradually decreased until there remains about enough to do police duty. The international army will not interfere in revolutions or domestic affairs. That will be left to the nations themselves."

BRAKEMAN ROBBED

And His Body Was Left on the Track at Newburyport

NEWBURYPORT, Oct. 12.—George E. Taylor of Boston, 25 years old, was attended by a physician. His injuries are not regarded as serious. He had been sent to a spur track to replace the air brakes on cars that were to be picked up by his train.

Just as he walked around the end of a car he was seized by a man who appeared to be a mulatto and who wore a light suit and small soft black hat, who demanded his money.

Taylor attempted to hit his assailant with his lantern and as he did so a second man struck him on the head with a blunt instrument. After this Taylor remembers no more until he regained consciousness while on the way into the city.

A posse of officers combed the country where the assault took place, but no trace of the assailants could be found.

Taylor had just gone to work after recovering from a fall in which two of his ribs were broken.

"SEEIN' THINGS"
THE SUBJECT OF TALK BY REV. R. A. ELWOOD

Rev. Elwood, was the subject of a very plain talk by Rev. R. A. Elwood, of the First Baptist church, on "Seein' Things," a suggestive of spiritualism, but the speaker's meaning that, but consisted of a series of word pictures descriptive of the different phases of human life.

MEDFORD, Oct. 12.—Tutts sophomores were informed yesterday morning in Goddard chapel by President Hamilton that some forms of hazing now popular here must be abandoned at once. He stated that nearly every student who had been hazed during the year had been taken from them and while they were still in ridiculous costume. Last week four first-year men, after entertaining the passersby in Boston by their forced antics, were hustled on board trains as they left the South station.

Two of them were put on a Providence-bound train, but managed to jump off near Hyde park and work their way back to college hill, and the other pair journeyed beyond Quincy before they could effect an escape. President Hamilton urged that the features that bring the college into unpleasant notoriety and that might affect the health or safety of the hazed parties be dropped.

This is the first time that any open criticism of the hazing methods has been made in recent years at Tutts. In 1906 some little disturbance was aroused over the hazing of four members of the 1219 class, but the matter calmed down without any trouble. President Hamilton's warning yesterday came as a surprise.

HE TRIED SUICIDE

Officer Attempted to Take His Life

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 12.—Special Officer George Duhrin, who has just recovered from a bullet wound, drank the contents of a small bottle of carbolic acid in his stove on Ferry street last night, and is now in the Mercy hospital in a dangerous condition. No reason for his attempted suicide can be learned from his wife, who was present when he drank the poison.

Dr. H. L. Hirsch and Dr. J. Downey were called, and they ordered his removal to the hospital. Officer Duhrin is one of several officers who attempted to quell a riot on Ferry street several weeks ago, and during the melee he was shot in the body, and for several days his life was despaired of by the physicians.

GEN'L OLIVER

Says That U. S. Troops Must be Fit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Acting Secretary of War, Mr. C. D. Smith, said today that the opinion that considerable misunderstanding exists as to the purposes of the war department in connection with the holding of joint maneuvers.

Gen. Oliver states that there is no intention of interfering in any way with the maneuvers, and are incident to the joint encampments of the regular troops and the militia such as are held every second year. But such joint maneuvers as the Boston campaign last summer would not be authorized unless the military organizations had proved themselves in their camps of instruction fit to take part and care for themselves properly, a condition which did not exist in the Massachusetts campaign.

In other words, the militiamen must first be taught to walk before they attempt to run, and the elementary instruction must first be had in the smaller biennial joint encampments.

MANY PETITIONS

FOR WRITS OF CERTIORARI BEFORE SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—After a recess of more than four months and with only Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Harlan, Brewer, White, Holmes, McKenna and Day present, the supreme court of the United States yesterday began the regular term for the next 12 months. Justices Peckham and Moody were both absent on account of illness, reducing the court to unusually small proportions.

The business of the day was continued to the admission of the bar, the presentation of motions and petitions, and the dismissal of a number of cases either by stipulation or on motion of the appellants. A large number of petitions for writs of certiorari, the purpose of which was to procure the review of the supreme court of cases decided adversely by the various United States courts of appeals, were presented, among which was that of the City of Newburyport, Mass., vs. the State of New Hampshire, et al., involving the right of the bank to collect $50,000 worth of notes fraudulently issued by the treasurer of the city in the name of the city. It was alleged that the treasurer, one James L. Peckham, issued the notes to cover up a shortage of his bank, but as apparently was acting under authority of the United States circuit court and the court of appeals for the first circuit found in favor of the bank.

The court took all the applications under advisement.

$10,000 VERDICT THEFT OF RING

Awarded Boy Run Over Is the Charge Against Mrs. Defoe

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Two verdicts aggregating $10,000 were rendered against the R. S. Brine transportation company in the superior court at East Cambridge yesterday afternoon.

The first suit, in which the damages sought were $10,000, was brought by Dennis Murphy, 10 years old, of Somerville, and in this suit a full verdict was brought in. The second suit was brought by the mother of the boy, Julia Murphy, in $500. She sued for loss of services, medical attendance, etc., and the verdict in that suit was $750.

The evidence tended to show that the boy was sitting on the sidewalk on Webster avenue, Somerville, on May 15, 1908, playing in a heap of sand when a four-horse dray, on which was a derrick, belonging to the defendant company, came along and turning in drove across the sidewalk. The wheels of the dray passed over one leg, crushing it so that amputation was necessary.

A chemist who became possessed of the conviction that the old methods of taking internal remedies to cure skin diseases was erroneous, after painstaking investigations, discovered that an extract from a particular part of a well-known tree possessed superior antiseptic and curative properties, and exerted a wonderful beneficial effect on the skin tissues. It was, however, found that this valuable vegetable extract, possessing such desirable qualities was difficult to compound with other ingredients necessary to present it in a form convenient to use. After further investigations and experiments a method of special treatment was devised by which this semibiotic substance could be effectively absorbed, resulting in a unique combination of ingredients possessing a marked degree of valuable therapeutic properties, the like of which has never before been produced. This important product is known as Cadum, and is now offered to the public at a price which brings it within the reach of even the very poor. Since its recent introduction Cadum has cured numerous cases of chronic eczema, and many other unsightly, irritating, and distressing skin troubles, and this after other treatments have signally failed. Cadum stops the terrible itching of eczema at once, and begins the healing process with the first application. Its action is still more remarkable in less serious skin troubles, such as rash, pimples, blotches, scaly skin, sores, itching piles, eruptions, chafing, scaly skin, blackheads, scabs, etc. Surprising results are often obtained by an overnight treatment. Many of the cures effected by Cadum may be truly described as remarkable. It is an antiseptic that destroys disease-producing germs, allays inflammation, and exerts a wonderful soothing and healing influence on the skin tissues. Cadum is sold at 10c and 25c a box, by all druggists.

A NEW MEDICAL DISCOVERY

THE NESBIT CASE

The Defendant Was Not in Court

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 12.—Howard Nesbit, brother of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, who was arrested here a week ago on a charge of trying to pawn his jewelry, was not in the common pleas court yesterday when his case was called. His attorney asked for a continuance for a month, which the court granted.

Young Nesbit was released on $500 bail, which was furnished by his sister, Mrs. Harry K. Thaw. If young Nesbit fails to appear at the next term of the court his bond will be forfeited. In the city court Nesbit was found guilty, but appealed his case to the common pleas court. His sister sent on his bail and afterward declared that she pawned her diamond engagement ring to get the money.

HARRIMAN'S WIDOW

Is World's Richest Woman With Fortune of $267,000,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Mrs. Mary Harriman, widow of Edward H. Harriman, is the richest woman in the world with a fortune of $267,000,000. Her husband's estate was valued at $300,000,000, but out of this he gave outright $25,000,000 to each of his five children, and $3,000,000 to other relatives.

Not only is Mrs. Harriman the richest woman in the world, but among the great names of finance, both in this country and in Europe, hers is right at the top of the list among the five or six richest individuals. With the exception of the Rockefeller, the Rothschild, the DuBois or Westminister and perhaps one of the Gould fortunes, Mrs. Harriman's wealth is greater than any other person's.

Beside her wealth the fortunes of Mrs. Henry Green and Mrs. Russell Sage seem small.

A friend of Mrs. Harriman, when asked what she would do with the money, said: "Why, just what her husband would have done. No man and wife were ever closer than Mr. and Mrs. Harriman. She was his only confidante. He never made a move without a plan for one of his coups unless he had gone over the grounds to the minutest detail with his wife. The death of Mr. Harriman will cause no shrinkage in the millions he left, for Mrs. Harriman is one of the best equipped women in the world to plunge and succeed. So into the intricacies of finance.

"Now I don't mean to insinuate that Mrs. Harriman is to become a second Henry Green. Mrs. Harriman is an entirely different type. She has other responsibilities and other plans just as near to her heart as money making is to Mrs. Green's."

"In the first place, work at Tower Hill is going on just as it had been planned by its master. Already the finest estate in America, Tower Hill, when completed will be the most magnificent country home in the world. Mr. Ford, Mr. Harriman's superintendent, is still in charge of the work, the only difference being that he now consults Mrs. Harriman alone instead of with Mr. and Mrs. Harriman, as he used to do. She has every detail of the work at her finger's ends."

When asked if she had any special plans for charity he replied that he didn't know or any.

Others in important parts were: Joseph Holicky as "Alfred Kingdom," Walter Morton as "Larry West," Al. Dupont as "Casso," Joseph Howard as "John Tarbell," Charles Fogg as "Deacon Skinner," Miss Hattie Remond as "Loris Moore," Miss Helena Rapoport as "Marco Matland," Miss Vera Sheridan as "Lena von Harringhausen," and Gusene Fisher as "herself." Specialties are introduced by Mr. Toner and Miss Sheridan.

"Wanted by the Police" will be given at the Opera House tonight and tomorrow night.

"THE CHORUS LADY."

A comedy in four acts, by James Forbes.

Suggested by a story, "The Extra Girl" which appeared in Ainslie's Magazine for July, 1905, and written by James Forbes.

Dramatized by Mr. Forbes as a one-act sketch for Rose Stahl in August, 1903.

Produced at Keith's Theatre, New York, under the title of "The Chorus Lady," in September, 1903, with Rose Stahl as Patricia O'Brien.

Was played at the New York City, September 1, 1908. Was transferred after five weeks to the Garrick Theatre, New York. Was again transferred to Hackett's Theatre, New York, in order to keep the production in New York. Hackett's Theatre has been bought by Henry B. Harris for four hundred thousand dollars. The play has had seven different engagements in New York City.

The prize was won by Geo. Marston in a Chambers, Detroit, followed closely by Harold Dicken, second, and Harold Vassili, 3d. A very plucky fight was put up by Edgar Farrar in a machine of a "foreign" make, but was severely hampered by his overturning, throwing over his shoulder and pinning the driver to the ground. After separating the sand, car and driver, the machine was put right and an effort was made to complete the lap, but tire trouble delayed him still further. Better luck next time. It is proposed to hold another race on Saturday when when a 20 car race will enter and as a special attraction it is expected a race with young ladies as drivers and mechanics will take place.

The 4th pony auto race of the season was held on the Sleepy Hill course last Saturday afternoon and lots of fun and excitement was furnished to those present. It is an ideal place with a dip and hair pin turn which requires no small amount of skill to negotiate safely and which is partly responsible for the present "corner" on wheels and axles.

ROSE STAHL AND WILFRED LUCAS IN "THE CHORUS LADY."

is espyed by Lester Loneragan (Capt. Douglas Morris of the Welsh Horse). The captain tries to catch up with the maiden, which results in a race across the field. It is neck and neck till a high hedge is reached. The girl's horse clears the hedge, while the captain's horse sailed and he was left behind. The girl reaches the enclosure of her father's estate when she is startled by the appearance of her cousin, "Edouard Edouard," who in the height of anger had struck an officer and being hard pressed went to his cousin's house for safety until he would have a chance to go to America.

During the conversation between the cousins the officer of horse's boots is heard entering and the runaway soldier boy is placed under an old sun dial while Nora is left to talk to the soldiers and assist in every possible way the escape of the cousin.

While in a meditative mood, awaiting the arrival of the scouting party, she is startled by seeing the head of the captain who was pursuing her rising up over the wall. Having been attracted by the beauty of the girl, he had given her chase and despite the fact that she got away from him for the time being he was determined that he should follow her.

Strategy on the part of the captain and the warning of the girl to the officer finally result in the captain being allowed to follow her. The captain is allowed to follow her. The captain is allowed to follow her.

A bright and witty cross fire of words leads to kinder relations between the two and the betrothal to the story of Nora which is the heart of the matter. A compact having been made by her grandfather years before, inasmuch as the grandfather had made the agreement with a close friend of his, both of whom were at the battle of Balacava she must carry out the compact.

The sketch is a very funny one, though there is enough of pathos interjected to make it stronger than a humorous sketch. Miss Richard is possessed of an excellent voice and she was heard in the most good selections.

There is a laugh every second in Potts Brothers & Company's comedy sketch entitled "Double Trouble." The Potts Brothers in reality are twins, but during the action of the sketch they take the part of cousins. Being the same name, the twins are almost accepting that the middle initials differ. One of the cousins gets married and is enjoying his honeymoon three weeks after the marriage when the other cousin rises. The scene is laid in the dining room where the couple are breakfasting and having tea. The husband leaves the room to get a cigar, but he never returns by a side door than the single cousin pops in through another door. The wife is surprised and asks questions of the person whom she supposes to be her husband, but the latter, thinking she has heard entered the parlor of the hotel knows nothing of what she is talking about. This condition of affairs goes on for some time, one of the men going out one door while almost simultaneously the other enters by another door. The woman finally believes that she is alone. The sketch is a laugh provoker to say the least and is so cleverly carried out that there is nothing ridiculous. Miss Mabel Kelly plays the part of the bride and some clever acting during the course of the play.

For the father and twin sons, an act of direct exhibition of the different styles of wrestling, also the various styles of wrestling, the act coming to a close with a fast bout between the twins. The twins are leaders in the game and work hard every minute they are on the stage. The father, meanwhile, explaining to the audience the different holds, etc.

Both of Potts Brothers' comedies, "Double Trouble" and "The Third Degree," are well worth the first act on the bill. They are good. Billy Coleman, called an original comedian, has a number of good jokes and a pleasing way with him. Dr. Allen & Hamilton, two women and a man, sing songs and converse on love and other topics. Guy and Murray show up in a black and white comedy act. The motion pictures are performed.

Performances of this good bill will be given on the first and second nights of the week. The father of the twins, the Potts Brothers, is driving across the country on her favorite horse when she is espyed by Lester Loneragan (Capt. Douglas Morris of the Welsh Horse). The captain tries to catch up with the maiden, which results in a race across the field. It is neck and neck till a high hedge is reached. The girl's horse clears the hedge, while the captain's horse sailed and he was left behind. The girl reaches the enclosure of her father's estate when she is startled by the appearance of her cousin, "Edouard Edouard," who in the height of anger had struck an officer and being hard pressed went to his cousin's house for safety until he would have a chance to go to America.

CURLEY'S CHARGE

Is Alleged to be Too Wide

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—That the present garbage contract which the city has with the New England Sanitary company has many remarkable features and that it is thought doubtful if the committee is the proper body to investigate the charges which Alderman Curley made recently against Charles Donovan of the democratic city committee, was the sum and substance of a preliminary report of the special ad hoc committee appointed to investigate the Curley-Donovan charges submitted to the board of aldermen yesterday.

The committee stated that in view of the fact that the board was considering an order providing for its dismissal and that its members thought that aldermen should be acquainted with the situation and the expense attendant on such an investigation, the committee decided to leave to make a preliminary report yesterday.

PIES SCARCE

AS RESULT OF STRIKE IN BAKERY

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—New York faced a pie famine yesterday as the result of the strike of the employees of several big pie bakeries. These establishments turn out about 125,000 pies a day.

While the smaller bakeries which do a retail trade are still running, the result of the strike is severely felt by hotels and restaurants which buy their pies in large lots. The striking pie makers want their wages raised from $15 to $16 a week.

SEVERAL INJURED

By Explosion of Boiler in the Amoskeag Mills

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 12.—By the pulling out of a fly sheet at the bottom of the tubes in a boiler which was one of a battery of twelve, located in the central boiler plant of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Co., an explosion took place today, resulting in five persons being seriously injured and two others slightly injured. The probabilities, with possibly one exception, are said to favor the recovery of the injured.

The accident came without warning, and seven men who were in the boiler room at the time, had no opportunity of the calamity. Suddenly there was a noise and the interior of the boiler house was filled with escaping steam, hot water, fire and flying missiles. The boiler shot up through the roof of the building and landed in a coal shed. Robert Edgar, superintendent of the boiler house, was among those injured.

The injured men who went to their homes were Derrick Trotter, stoker, 11 Schuyler street, and Emil Dumont, stoker, 254 Main street.

The last previous accident of magnitude on the Amoskeag property occurred eighteen years ago, when three persons were killed and seven injured by the bursting of a fly wheel.

Publisher of Worcester Spy Dead

WORCESTER, Oct. 12.—Word was received yesterday of the sudden death in Marion from heart disease of Capt. John S. Baldwin, former publisher of the Worcester Spy, and a Civil war veteran. Mr. Baldwin was in Worcester last Thursday to attend a regimental reunion of the 51st Massachusetts regiment, of which he was historian, and left here Saturday to go to his home in Marion in an automobile.

He was born in New Haven, Jan. 6, 1834, son of John D. Baldwin, a Congregational minister and afterward editor of a Hartford paper and later of the Daily Commonwealth of Boston. The family moved to Worcester from Boston in 1885, when the editor Baldwin bought the Worcester Spy from Zarnum & Foss. The sons, John S. and Charles C., ran the Spy, while the father went to Congress.

John S. Baldwin joined the 51st Massachusetts regiment as captain of Company F. On his return from the war he was married to Miss Emily Brown, and continued the publication of the Spy until he was 15 years old to E. Walker of Chicago. Mr. Baldwin served a Worcester district in the legislature and also in the Worcester school committee and his late public office was House commissioner under Mayor W. H. Budget. After resigning this office, he moved to Marion, where he had since lived. He leaves a widow and six children.

DETROIT VICTORY

A LOWELL MAN

Goes to Franklin, N. H., to Search for Missing Brother

Henry Desormun of Lowell went to Franklin, N. H., yesterday in search of his brother, Alphonse Desormun, concerning whom there has been some anxiety among his friends. Alphonse had worked in Franklin several months, but went to Laconia several weeks ago. Last week a report came from Laconia that the young man had disappeared and that his clothes were found by the side of the lake, giving rise to the suspicion that he had drowned himself.

City Marshal Seaton communicated with his brother, who went to Franklin yesterday to make a search. It was learned at Laconia that Alphonse had sent a message from Hillside house at Ashland to have his clothes forwarded to that place Sunday. The Hillside house was called by telephone and it was ascertained that the young man had been there, but had departed a few days ago.

He stated that he expected some clothes to be sent from Laconia and would come back to the Hillside for them. The brother went to Holderness yesterday afternoon.

The finding of the clothes beside the shore of the lake has been the mystifying feature of the affair and the friends of the young man cannot account for this particular occurrence.

ACTION OF TORT

Heard in Civil Session Today

The case of John Stiles vs. Andrew and Mary Krystyniak, an action of tort, was heard before Judge Pickman in the civil session of the police court this afternoon. James Stuart Murphy appeared for the plaintiff while the defendants were represented by J. Joseph O'Connor and Jeremiah O'Sullivan.

The case in question is a very complicated one and is but one of three cases which grew out of an alleged assault and battery case which took place in Detroit several months ago. According to testimony offered in a case in the police court, the plaintiff in the case was a woman, the complainant and claimed that, while trying to collect a bill he was assaulted and a suit of clothes which he wore was destroyed as a result of his having been thrown to the floor and rushed against the walls of a room which had been recently painted. In the assault and battery case heard before the court Andrew Krystyniak was found guilty and a fine of $15 was imposed. An appeal was taken and the case went to the superior court but owing to the fact that civil action had been taken in the meantime the superior court refused to consider the case until the civil case had been disposed of.

The civil case was heard this afternoon and the plaintiff, Stiles, in his declaration, said that the defendant, as notified him and struck him, threw him down, choked him and otherwise grievously hurt and wounded him. A second count says that the plaintiff as a result of the assault had a suit of clothes torn and soiled.

The defendant's answer is that the plaintiff should prove the assault and battery and that the defendants were justified in defending their personal person.

Besides the two above mentioned cases there is an action of contract pending.

MATRIMONIAL

Dr. Edwin J. Gillette of Syracuse, N. Y., and Miss Frances Welton Anderson, daughter of the late William H. Anderson, Esq., and Mrs. Mary A. Anderson, were married this afternoon at the Anderson home at 200 West street. The ceremony took place at 2 o'clock. It was a pretty October wedding. Rev. Charles T. Billings, pastor of the First Unitarian church, officiated. The bride is well and very favorably known in Lowell. Dr. Gillette is a graduate of Williams college and University of Pennsylvania Medical school. He has practiced medicine at Syracuse and has been the attending physician at the county home and hospital in that city. The ceremony was witnessed only by the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. Mrs. Anderson was maid of honor, and the best man was J. Danforth Bush of Wilmington, Del. The ushers were William A. Glen of Syracuse, William Gillette of Waterbury, Conn., and William W. Dunton, Lowell's city solicitor. The bride wore a gray silk trimmed with black thread lace. At the reception following the ceremony more than 100 guests were present, including friends from Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Wilmington, Del., Boston, Brooklyn, Abol, Southbridge, New Haven, Watertown, Shelton and Derby, Conn., and Syracuse and Lockport, N. Y. After a tour through the west, Dr. and Mrs. Gillette will make their home in Phoenix, Arizona.

PITCHER MULLIN

Pitched a Great Game For the Tigers Today

DETROIT, Oct. 12.—Cold weather

directed the baseball enthusiasts to the ballpark, their way to Bennett park for the fourth game of the world's championship series between Pittsburgh and Detroit, which was scheduled for today. The sun shone brightly, but a brisk and chilling wind prevailed and on the whole it would be hard to imagine a worse day for good baseball.

The eagerness of the national commission and the players of both teams to avoid any delay in beginning the crucial series to a finish will cause them to make every effort to play the game today.

The conditions were not yesterday, but today they are worse. Despite the untoward weather conditions, the crowd began to gather early at Bennett park. The brilliant rally of Detroit in the closing innings of yesterday's battle has inspired fresh hope in the breasts of the local supporters despite the defeat of their team. The 18,217 crowd of yesterday set a new world's record for this city, and it is not thought it will be broken or even equaled today.

Four umpires will be on duty during the remaining games of this series. Two will work in their regular positions behind the ball and on the bases, while the other two will be stationed at the end of the right and left field lines. The duties of the latter two will be principally to make decisions regarding balls hit into the crowd. The point as to whether a ball is hit into a temporary stand or a permanent one has been a question, and it is difficult for the umpires working far away to

DISCOVERED BY DOG

Trunk of Woman's Body Found at New Bedford

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 12.—It is reported that the trunk of the body, the limbs of which were discovered in a suit case at Tiverton, has been found in this city, this afternoon.

The head and arms were missing from the trunk. The body was discovered by a dog whose master, James Monroe, was engaged with others in a search for the body. It lay about ten feet from the highway, about a mile and a half from the place where the several limbs were discovered on the highway road last night. The highway near where the trunk was found was called Fish road. Near the torso was a jagged stone with what the medical examiner believed to be portions of flesh clinging to it. The body was uncovered, but fragments of a New Bedford newspaper of the same date as that which had been used to wrap the severed legs in had been placed about the shoulders, covering the arm sockets.

The indications were taken to show that this part of the body, like those found last night had been thrown into the bushes from a passing vehicle. After examining the body this afternoon the medical examiner expressed the opinion that the victim was a blonde and that she was a young and well-developed woman.

THE PANAMA CASE

Questions Answered by Doctor

ABOUT RHEUMATISM

This Knowledge Will Help You

The questions were put to an able physician, a graduate of Harvard College Medical School, who was trained in the Massachusetts General Hospital, and has practiced medicine for many years.

Here we publish the questions and answers.

Question—How do rheumatism know when they have been cured?

Answer—The most usual symptoms are: Pains in joints, swelling of joints, stiffness in muscles, creaking or snapping of joints, swellings of joints or feet, painful urination, sharp pain or dull ache of kidneys, pain in stomach, especially after eating.

Question—What is rheumatism?

Answer—It is perhaps the most painful disease that ever comes to a large number of people. It is the long-acting, poisonous secretions usually in the joints. Often also in the muscles and tendons.

Question—What causes these poisons?

Answer—It is a combination of stomach, bowel and kidney trouble, which in turn causes a blood trouble. Questions—Just how does this cause the pain?

Answer—First the stomach, but partly failed in its work. Sometimes because of too much rich food and sometimes for quite the opposite cause—poor living.

The work of the stomach is to turn food into nourishment that the body can take up and carry on over the body and which it makes use of as fuel, muscle, bone, etc.

But when the stomach does its work of order it does not quite complete its work. Part of the food often remains and putrefies, making a poisonous substance.

Now let us follow a drop of blood in its trip through the body.

From the stomach it takes up its little load of nourishment to be taken throughout the body, leaving a little nourishment here, a little there as needed, and so on just as a railroad train leaves passengers and baggage along its route.

But the railroad train also takes on passengers and baggage as it goes along and comes back with just as many passengers and just as much baggage as it started out with. Just the same way with the blood. It takes out to the body nourishment in large loads, about an equal load that it has collected along its trip. This load that it brings back consists of waste and dead tissues and poisons. The blood leaves most of this load in the kidneys. The duty of the kidneys is then to throw the waste matter out of the body through the bowels and urine. The blood thus relieved of its burden returns to its new load of nourishment from the stomach and starts again on its trip through the body. This work of the blood continues as long as life lasts.

Science teaches that the burden of the blood should be evenly balanced—that it shall carry out from the stomach just so much nourishment and bring back to the kidneys just so much waste matter.

Now let us see what happens when the stomach is deranged. By allowing some of the food to putrefy and ferment a certain amount of poisons form. These mix with the nourishment and get into the blood.

At first the blood does not drop any of these poisons along the system but keeps them all for the kidneys.

In this way when the blood gets to the kidneys it is overloaded with poisonous matter. It has all the poisons it has gathered from the body and it also has the extra poisons that the stomach put into it in the first place.

At first the kidneys handle the extra poisons without complaint.

But the deranged stomach keeps letting more and more poisons into the blood. This finally overworks the poison handling ability of both kidneys and bowels.

Then the kidneys refuse to receive all the poison that the blood brings to them.

So the blood leaves with the kidneys as much of the poisons as the blood will take and the blood keeps the rest.

So now every time the blood takes its trip through the body it has more and more poison in it.

If this continued the poison would take all the room. There would be no room left for nourishment and very soon death would come.

But nature always prefers sickness to death so the blood begins to drop off some of the extra load of poisons at different parts of the body.

Usually these poisons are dropped off at the joints—sometimes the finger joints first, sometimes first at the knees, the elbows, shoulder blades, etc.

These gatherings at the joints are what cause the pains of rheumatism.

In advanced cases the flesh can be cut open and these poisonous deposits scraped away from the joints. But what is the use, because it would require a painful and dangerous surgical operation on every joint and then the matter would be only for a short time until the poisons gathered again.

Question—Can rheumatism be cured?

Answer—Yes, rheumatism can now be cured.

Question—What will cure it?

Answer—A combination of two medicines. One must be a tonic on which the tonic theory of treatment can be carried out. At the same time a specific treatment to stop the formation of more poisons and having the remarkable quality of increasing the poison-carrying power of the blood. It must also stimulate and strengthen the action of the kidneys and bowels so they can handle the extra load of poisons.

Question—Just how will this treatment work out?

Answer—First the tonic treatment will build up the whole body. It will stimulate and put new life into the system.

Then the rheumatic treatment will get in its great work to best advantage. First it will neutralize the poisons in the stomach so it will pass out through the bowels instead of getting into the blood.

Then it will increase the blood's poison-carrying capacity so it will begin to pick up the rheumatic poisons from the joints and bring them into the kidneys and bowels, to be thrown out of the system.

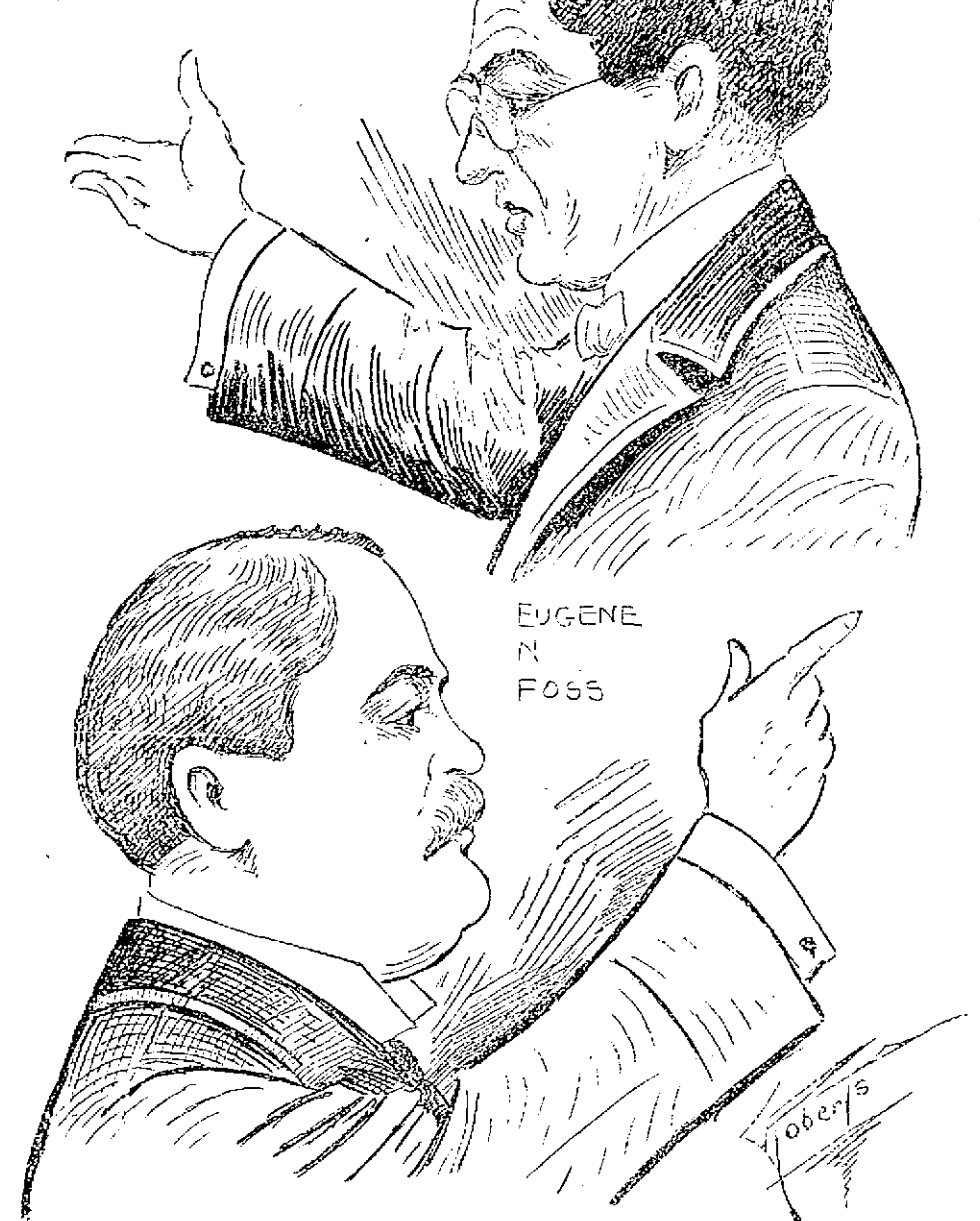

The tonic treatment and the rheumatic medicine combined will keep the kidneys strengthened and the bowels active so they will easily do their part in getting the rheumatic poisons from the blood and out of the body.

Then the blood will be clean and the body will be healthy.

DEMOCRATICALLY

Vahey and Foss Addressed Big Meeting Last Night

HON. JAMES H. VAHEY

HON. JAMES H. VAHEY AND EUGENE N. FOSS SPEAKING AT THE DEMOCRATIC RALLY LAST NIGHT

Large and Enthusiastic Meeting Heard Arraignment of Republican Party — Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Congressman Peters, Alderman Dietrich, Rep. McNaughton and Lawyer Tierney — Strong Appeal for United Action in Support of Democratic Ticket

The democratic state campaign was formally opened last evening by a big rally in the city hall, attended by an audience of nearly 2000 citizens, including quite a sprinkling of republicans.

The rally was one of the most successful in many years, for although it was not over until nearly 11 o'clock nearly all remained.

The democratic state committee, Mr. Vahey remarked jokingly is trying its best to kill off the candidates for it has arranged a schedule of rallies that can only be met by means of air ship before coming to Lowell.

Before coming to Lowell, Mr. Vahey addressed large audiences in Haverhill and Lawrence, and did not arrive until 10 o'clock. Eugene N. Foss, candidate for lieutenant-governor, Hon. John F. Fitzgerald of Boston and congressman Peters of Boston spoke here first, and then went to the other cities, while Alderman F. S. Dietrich of Cambridge, Rep. M. C. McNaughton of Lowell and Edward J. Tierney of this city "filled in" until the arrival of Mr. Vahey, with interesting speeches. Music was furnished by the Lowell Chorus band, John J. Giblin, leader.

On the platform were many well known democrats, mostly candidates for office in the municipal campaign.

Called to Order.

The rally was called to order by Humphrey O'Sullivan, who said that the democrats had come together under most auspicious circumstances. It was his deliberate opinion, said Mr. O'Sullivan, that the prospects for democratic success are growing brighter every minute and that victory is within our grasp. We need a change in our government. The longer we remain the slaves of one party the worse for the state. Let us put the issue to the people. Let us put the issue to the people. Let us put the issue to the people.

Mr. Donahue's Remarks.

Truths on which this country was founded. It stands on the platform of Mr. Sinal, the 10 commandments. There is a glorious ray of promise in the sky.

NO WOMAN MISSING

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 12.—The police of Tiverton, R. I., telephoned to the New Bedford police last night regarding the finding of portions of the legs of a woman wrapped in a New Bedford Sunday newspaper, but as the police here had no report of any woman missing, they were unable to throw any light on the mystery.

Only one half of the bag was there, the cover being missing, and there were exposed to the letter carriers view the three portions of human legs, partly wrapped in newspaper.

Later and more careful observation showed these three portions to consist of one leg, thick to foot, cut in two places at the knee, and the other half leg, thick to knee.

The foot is quite small. The medical examiner, after taking some measurements, found that the leg was 24 inches in length and that the foot was about the size for a 12 or 13 year old, and he estimated from these facts that the woman was probably a foot 12 inches tall and weighed perhaps 120 pounds.

A large callous on the bottom of the foot indicated that the woman was accustomed to much walking or standing, and suggested that she was a working girl.

No Marks of Ownership.

Several portions of a New Bedford Sunday paper of Sunday's date were lying loose near the bag and one portion was loosely wrapped about a portion of the leg.

There were no initials on the bag and no mark of any kind by which its ownership could be told. The material of the bag is strawbush, covered with heavy cloth, an inexpensive affair such as newly arrived immigrants frequently carry. It is not new, but in fairly good condition. The top of the bag, which fastened to the bottom part by

Her Hacked Limbs Were Found in a Suit Case

Police of Tiverton, R. I., Have Mystery on Their Hands — Believed That Woman Was Murdered on Sunday — Rest of Body Has Not Been Discovered

TIVERTON, R. I., Oct. 12.—In an extension bag that lay beside the Bulgar marsh road, a bonesome country highway, were found yesterday afternoon the two thighs and one leg of a woman, probably under 30 years of age. The cover of the bag had been removed.

Nearby were pieces of a New Bedford Sunday paper of Oct. 10 and an empty ale bottle.

The discovery was made by George Potter, a special police officer of Tiverton and a substitute letter carrier. Potter noticed the Tiverton police, who in turn made known the find to Medical Examiner John Stimson of Tiverton.

Though the discovery was made early yesterday afternoon, word was not received until a somewhat late hour, Medical Examiner Stimson went to the scene about 3 o'clock.

The thighs and legs were in an excellent state of preservation, and it was evident from their condition that the dismembering was of very recent date.

The similarity of the case to that of the famous Susan Geary crime in Boston at once suggested itself to the officials investigating, but at a late hour last night they had made little progress toward unraveling the mystery.

The finding of the New Bedford newspaper of Sunday's date is regarded as the most important clue thus far, indicating possibly the place of the murder.

The authorities last night were of the opinion that the woman was murdered in New Bedford, that the thighs and legs were placed in the bag there and brought by wagon or automobile to Tiverton Sunday night.

According to a medical examiner, Dr. Stimson, the supposed murder was committed not more than 12 or 15 hours before the bag with its ghastly contents was discovered.

That a murder was committed and that the cutting was not done by the experienced hands of a surgeon or medical student is the belief of the medical examiner, who says that apparently a common hand saw was used to sever the thighs.

Found Close to the Road.

The search for other portions of the body in the woods near the place where the bag was found was continued by the police and volunteers all night, but at a late hour no new find had been reported. Should this search still be fruitless today, swamps in the neighborhood will be dragged.

The spot where the bag was found is about 20 feet from the edge of the Bulgar marsh road at a point between 200 and 300 yards from Bliss Four Corners in this town. It is about eight miles from New Bedford. Bulgar marsh road runs from Newport to New Bedford, passing through the outskirts of Fall River and is much used by automobile parties, especially on Sundays, when various resorts along the road are visited by people from the Massachusetts factory city as well as from Rhode Island towns.

From Bliss Four Corners for a distance of several miles north across the Massachusetts line, the country along this road is sparsely settled, consisting largely of swamp land covered with wild growth. The nearest house to the scene of the finding of the bag is at Bliss Four Corners.

Locality Well Chosen.

The locality was apparently well suited to concealing the evidences of a crime, and according to people living in the neighborhood, the body might have lain there days undiscovered, had not the rural letter carrier, George Potter, chanced to go to the spot yesterday afternoon.

Potter was making his rounds, passing along the road, when he noticed a little path leading from the highway into the bushes. He turned off momentarily to go a short distance along this path, and had stepped hardly three paces from the highway when he came upon the bag.

Only one half of the bag was there, the cover being missing, and there were exposed to the letter carriers view the three portions of human legs, partly wrapped in newspaper.

Later and more careful observation showed these three portions to consist of one leg, thick to foot, cut in two places at the knee, and the other half leg, thick to knee.

The foot is quite small. The medical examiner, after taking some measurements, found that the leg was 24 inches in length and that the foot was about the size for a 12 or 13 year old, and he estimated from these facts that the woman was probably a foot 12 inches tall and weighed perhaps 120 pounds.

A large callous on the bottom of the foot indicated that the woman was accustomed to much walking or standing, and suggested that she was a working girl.

No Marks of Ownership.

Several portions of a New Bedford Sunday paper of Sunday's date were lying loose near the bag and one portion was loosely wrapped about a portion of the leg.

There were no initials on the bag and no mark of any kind by which its ownership could be told. The material of the bag is strawbush, covered with heavy cloth, an inexpensive affair such as newly arrived immigrants frequently carry. It is not new, but in fairly good condition. The top of the bag, which fastened to the bottom part by straps running around the whole, could not be found yesterday.

The supposition that the top was used for making away with other parts of the body led the officers to search the woods carefully in the vicinity last night.

There were no footprints along the little path leading from the highway, except those of the letter carrier who made the discovery, and no indication that the bushes in any direction had been disturbed to make way for the passage of any person. The bag with its contents lay in the path.

The authorities believe that the case was thrown from an automobile or carriage into the bushes some time Sunday night, and that the fact that it landed in the center of a path in full view of all working night lamp along was unknown to those who desired to dispose of it.

Victim From New Bedford?

In the darkness, the path would be invisible and the bushes would look dense enough and the locality desolate enough to conceal its secret for months. It is such a place as a person bent on hiding the evidences of a crime might readily select.

The medical examiner, Chief of Police Manchester of Tiverton, and Deputy Sheriff Frank Debliss of Newport county were all working last night on the theory that the victim came from New Bedford and that the murder was committed Sunday night.

Dr. Stimson was one of the first officials to reach the scene after Potter discovered the bag. Chief Manchester was absent in Newport and Deputy Sheriff Debliss, who was notified, took the medical examiner in his automobile and together they carried the bag and contents, together with the pieces of newspaper and the empty bottle, to the home of Dr. Stimson. There the evidences of the crime remained last night in the custody of the medical examiner, while officers were scouring the country in the hunt for further clues.

Dr. Stimson found that the wounds where the legs were severed were of a ragged nature, not at all the cut of a surgeon's knife, even though the instrument were wielded by an inexperienced hands, such as those of a medical student. The medical examiner thought that a hand saw was probably used in cutting up the body.

Evidence All Toward Murder.

The ragged nature of the cuts and the fact that the condition of the limbs showed that death had occurred only 12 hours or so before the discovery by the letter carrier leads Dr. Stimson to discard the theory that these are the ghastly relics of an operating table or of a medical student's experiments.

In the mind of the authorities every circumstance points to murder.

The empty ale bottle, if it has any bearing on the case at all, is thought to strengthen the theory that the person who threw away the bag came from a roadside rather than from the Newport end of the road. There is a roadhouse on the Rhode Island side of the line where ale may be purchased, but the kind which this bottle contained is not sold there.

People living in the two townships nearest the scene recall that they heard much loud talking and cursing in that direction just before 6 o'clock Sunday night. They put it down as the noise of an over-exhausted Sunday pleasure party, such as is heard not infrequently along that highway on a Sunday, and made no investigation.

A little girl, Lillian Coggeshall, who lives at the home of Martin Gray at Bliss Four Corners, was one of those who heard the noise. A woman, who lives in another house along the road, remembered two men and a woman carrying a heavy bundle pass along the road, but she was not certain whether it was Sunday night or Saturday night.

The authorities have communicated with the New Bedford police to ascertain whether the body of a woman carrying a heavy bundle pass along the road, but she was not certain whether it was Sunday night or Saturday night.

CAPTURE OF CORBETT

Was Brought About by Detective

William Rose

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 12.—Living as a supposed confederate in a shack in the Shekonk woods for ten weeks with Joseph Corbett who was held without bail to await a trial today on a charge of murdering Charles E. Randall, the Glenyon dye works' paymaster, shot and killed in Philadelphia Jan. 2 of this year, was the experience of Detective William Rose, who is responsible for Corbett's capture.

At one time Rose was a private detective of former Police Commissioner William McAfee of New York and later state detective in Connecticut.

Reviewing his work, Detective Rose said today:

"I sought to gain the confidence of the suspect by entering into his life as one of his supporters in anything that might be undertaken. I lived at his hotel and there I met other men who have been associated with Corbett.

"I knew my position was a serious one. I was tramp to all intents and purposes.

"Corbett told me he lived some time in Boston and that he came this way early in January and returned to Boston in March. In Boston, Corbett has a wife and stepson.

"On several occasions Corbett piloted me by the place where Mr. Randall and Miss Dodge were held up. When passing the point Corbett would invariably pluck my arm, look at the roadway, wave his hand low and turn his head to one side.

"People call Corbett the Jesse James of the east."

"Corbett told me that he secreted himself in the woods for a week after the shooting. Corbett planned jobs in which I was to participate and one in particular in which we were to hold up the paymaster of a large concern in East Providence.

"He expressed a desire to leave this section of the country and the understanding between us was that we were to go west and engage in the business of dynamiting trains and such undertakings."

MIKE McDONOUGH

Well Known City Employee Injured by Auto

Michael McDonough, the well known city employee, employed as what is popularly known as a "sparrow man" in Market street, was struck by an auto owned by Dr. Clifford early this afternoon and was somewhat shaken up. He was removed to E. A. McQuade's saloon and afterward was taken to his home in Centralville. The machine skidded on the wet pavement, causing the accident.

Fred C. Church held the insurance on the property in Lawrence street belonging to Morris Cohen where a fire occurred last night.

Drunken Husband Left Wife and Children to Starve

Owen Grimes, a young man, was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on complaints charging him with drunkenness and feloniously breaking and entering the saloon of Charles L. Marren & Co. in Gorham street and the larceny of $8 in money therefrom. He pleaded guilty to both complaints. Probable cause was found on the more serious charge and he was held for the superior court, while on the charge of drunkenness he was sentenced to four months in jail.

Grimes' case is a sad one. But a few years ago he was one of the prominent young men of this city and was noted for his honesty and temperance, but he started to drink and went from bad to worse.

Sunday afternoon, while under the influence of liquor, it is alleged that he removed the screen from one of the windows in Marren's saloon more for the purpose of securing liquor than anything else. While in the place he found $8 in a cash register and took it.

Very Sad Case

The case of William Slow, charged with drunkenness, developed into the recitation of the crazy actions of a drunken husband while the wife and three children were left to starve.

Slow was arrested yesterday in Agawam street by Patrolman Frank Moore who said that the defendant's brother-in-law tried to get him to go home, but he refused to do so.

Mrs. Slow said that her husband left her about three weeks ago and since that time he has been living with another woman and has not contributed one cent towards her support. She said that she was discouraged and that for three days she and her children have been without food.

Slow denied that he had been keeping company with another woman but acknowledged that he had spent all the money he had for drink.

He promised to do better in the future, but the wife said that she would not live with him and would go back to the old country as soon as she could get the money.

It was understood that the man had some money which had been left with the keeper when he was placed under arrest and Judge Hadley, addressing one of the officers said: "Go down and see if this man has got any money. If he has, I will about the run shops out of the sale of a few drinks." When the court officer returned to the court, however, the judge was informed that the man did not have a cent.

In order that the family might receive some support the court imposed a suspended sentence of four months in jail.

Owing to the fact that the principals in the case were unable to understand English it was necessary to press an interpreter into service and Miss J. J. O'Brien, a young woman of about 15 years of age, who has an excellent knowledge of English as well as the mother tongue, was used and she proved to be one of the best interpreters who has appeared in court for years.

Smith Settled

Joseph Smith of Collierville, who while in a drunken condition Saturday night entered the grocery store of Frank Breen in South street and put his fist through a glass showcase, was in court this morning, his case having been continued from yesterday. Smith said that he did not intend to break the showcase, but did it by accident. He said that the defendant had settled for the damage done and that he did not care about pressing the case.

On the charge of drunkenness Smith was fined $2.

Drunken Offenders

Joseph Lander, who has appeared before the court on several occasions this year, was sentenced to three months in jail.

Frank E. McOsker, charged with drunkenness, was fined $5, while three other offenders were fined $2 each.

Neglect of His Wife

Penegeotis Cargarens, or a man whose name sounded something like that, was arraigned in court on a complaint charging him with neglecting to provide support for his wife. He entered a plea of not guilty but was found guilty and given a four-months sentence to jail. That sentence was suspended for two weeks in order to give him a chance to secure work and support his wife. In the event of his not securing work within two weeks he will go to jail.

Trivial Assault

John McArthur was charged with assault and battery on Torkla Basso. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to jail for two weeks. The case was uninteresting and long drawn out, and after the testimony had been concluded the court found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $1.

COLUMBUS DAY

Celebrated in New York Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Columbus day, the last legal holiday to join the month of July, Christmas, Thanksgiving and the rest on the statute books of New York, New Jersey and several other states, was celebrated here today by a parade of the Italian societies.

The schools, public offices, banks and stock exchanges and many business houses were closed and this evening there will be a public meeting at Carnegie hall, where addresses will be made by Gov. Hughes, Mayor McClellan and other prominent men. This is the first time that the day that Columbus landed on San Salvador has been nationally recognized as a holiday in this state, and the city which still retains the festival spirit of the Hudson-Eulton celebration made it notable.

The parade was reviewed by the admiral of the Italian war fleet, which came here with the Hudson-Eulton fleet, the Italian sailors and marines were in line.

Tonight the Verazzano monument committee, which is erecting a memorial to the Italian whom his countrymen say first found the Hudson river, will co-operate with the Columbus day committee in a fair for the benefit of the orphans of the Messina earthquake.

REV. R. A. ELWOOD

Rev. R. A. Elwood, the eloquent lecturer of Philadelphia, Pa., will preach in the Tyler street W. P. church tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Elwood is one of the ablest platform orators of the east. A good choir singing. Everybody welcome.

REPAIRING DAMAGE

That Was Wrought by Hurricane at Key West

KEY WEST, Fla., Oct. 12.—With the city in the hands of the military authorities who were called upon by the mayor for assistance, efforts were made today to repair the damage wrought by the hurricane which swept the Gulf yesterday. It is estimated that the damage to property in the city and harbor will reach $200,000. No loss of life has been reported in the city, but it is feared that the death toll will be heavy along the eastern coast of Florida.

Many vessels which had been swept from their moorings during the blow yesterday afternoon managed to ride out the storm during the night and limped back to their piers this morning between 10 and 15 boats of all descriptions were wrecked. It is feared a number of lives were lost on these vessels.

In the city whole blocks of frame structures were razed, brick houses also fell before the gale, while the great tobacco factories and warehouses suffered considerable damage. It will probably be several weeks before they will be able to resume operations.

The city jail is filled to overflowing with vandals captured by the militia and police during the night. Thieves began operations as soon as the fury of the storm had abated, the wrecking of the electric light plant having plunged the city into darkness. The mayor immediately proclaimed martial law. The Key West guards were called out and patrolled the streets during the night. The United States government also has been called on for assistance in the storm-swept region.

Hundreds are homeless today and are being cared for in schools and other roomy structures which escaped the fury of the storm. Rations are being distributed by the city authorities and it is expected help will arrive during the day from the state.

COMMUNICATION INTERRUPTED

HAVANA, Oct. 12.—Communication between this city and interior points was interrupted when yesterday's storm tore down the telegraph and telephone wires and had not been restored today. Reports from nearby places indicate that the property loss, especially to the westward, has been heavy but that there were few fatalities. Four bodies have been found and the ruins of fallen homes here and it is not believed that twelve lives were lost in this city. At least half of the lighters that were in the harbor were wrecked. The storm broke were sunk or stranded and the work of the loading and discharging cargoes has been interfered with in a way to seriously affect the shipping interests.

THE HURRICANE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 12.—Reports received by the weather bureau here today indicate that the hurricane which swept over the southeast coast of Florida yesterday and last night came directly east from the Jupiter islands and spent its force in the neighborhood of the Bahama islands.

AFTER BIG GAME

OFFICERS McLOUGHERY AND BIGELOW OFF FOR MAINE

The entire police department including the deposited commissioners, has gone on a diet to get up a good healthy appetite for moose, deer and bear meat for tomorrow. Officers Alex McCloughery and Sam Bigelow leave for Bigelow's native place, not on the map, but seven miles this side of Skowhegan, Me., on a three weeks' hunting trip. If they should lack all the game they have promised nobody else in the state of Maine will get anything for the remainder of the hunting season.

INTERESTING NEWS OF THE THEATRICAL WORLD

"Love Cure," "Flag Lieutenant" and Other New Dramatic Productions--Nazimova's Plans

[From Our New York Dramatic Correspondent.]

NEW plays by the quart, yard, pound and kilo have flocked to the metropolitan boards like quails to a patch of buckwheat. No fewer than ten new dramas of late have had the breath of life blown into their nostrils, and managerial announcements indicate that the present season will outstrip all records in any country as to the number of new dramas staged.

"The Love Cure" at the New Amsterdam theater, is a musical comedy with much pleasing music and a story that does not refuse to stick together. This production is an importation from abroad by Henry W. Savage, and, while it will not duplicate the sensational success of "The Merry Widow," it will, like "The Gay Hussars," prove a substantial winner.

Charles J. Ross, Craig Campbell, Eva Fallon and Elgie Bowen are seen in the principal roles with excellent effect.

Story of the Play.
Taking the episode of David Garrick and his attempt to disgust his sweetheart through feigning intoxication for its central situation, the authors hit the disipation instead to the heroine. She is an actress who has promised the boy's father that she will cure his son—a stage door Johnny—of his infatuation for her. And, by the way, in "Papa's Wife" Miss Held simulated alcoholic enthusiasm, you may recall, with capital vivacity.

The story of "The Love Cure" is not complicated or laden with surprises, but it all leads up to a strong and picturesque climax for the second act, with the heroine dancing wildly to disgust her young lover and astonishing the guests at a reception with her declaration that the man of her choice is Terrell, the middle aged leading man of her company, who likewise adores her. The last act, set behind the scenes a la "Zaza," has a dash of pathos, for it is then that Terrell learns that Nelly Vaughn—that's the girl's name—has used him only as a blind to conceal her real love for his youthful rival. There is another new element in the last act that helps materially to sustain the success of "The Love Cure"—the rehearsal of an awkward lot of chorus girls in a new dance by a sarcastic stage manager, punctuated with the saucy rebuffs of the young women. Milton Pollock played the stage manager with delightfully dry humor.

"The Flag Lieutenant."
"The Flag Lieutenant," at the Criterion theater, gives Bruce McRae an opportunity to star as a light comedian. "The Flag Lieutenant" is a breezy, lively story of the Civil War. Mr. McRae as Richard Lescroart, a captivated day of romantic tenderness, carries the play along to success.

For folk who cannot visit John Bull's Mediterranean fleet "The Flag Lieutenant" gives a two and a half hour picture of it that is pretty comprehensive. The battle scenes are most effective and the naval service as en-cabin, the British camp in an expedition against the bashi-bazouks at Candia, then Malta and, lastly, the quarterdeck of the flagship Royal Edward are the scenes.

Isabel Irving's portrait of the navy acted by Lumsden Hare, Lawrence Grant and H. J. Ginn. C. Leslie Allen and Rosa Rand contribute mirthful pictures of two terrible old busybodies, General and Mrs. Gough-Bogie. The two "middles" are rather overdone, though amusingly so, by James McIntyre in "McIntyre and Heath in Hayti," the current attraction at the Circle theater, New York, under the management of Klaw & Erlanger, that the audience in its mirth at times is nearly plunged into hysterics. Laughter prevails every minute of the time that these two black faced comedians are on the stage.

"McIntyre and Heath in Hayti" comes first from the pen of John J. McNally, with lyrics and music by

In the first act the scene is laid in the casino at French Lick, Ind. There the two negroes love the same girl, and here occurs the awful assault of Heath upon McIntyre with that "sleazy to-mattus." There ensues the feud in which McIntyre insists that a great deal of "unwritten law" is to be used. From French Lick the pair move to Hayti, whither Gerónimo Moss (McIntyre) has been inveigled for revolutionary purposes by the promise of a presidency. Jobs and Jasper John-

Jobs disguises himself as a laundress and is put through a mock drill by Johnson, masquerading as a soldier, which is excruciatingly funny. The rule is brief, and once more, after a mere taste of power, he becomes the hard luck Georgia negro.

Punctuating this story at frequent intervals are musical numbers rendered by individual members of the company, re-enforced by as capable a chorus as ever pointed a toe. That of modern life by Brandon Tynan, who was Mme. Nazimova's leading man last year. This is not Mr. Tynan's first dramatic contribution, as he has several plays to his credit, but his new play, which is to be called "The Passion Flower," is mentioned as his most ambitious effort, striking a new note in the drama. He has had the constant advice of Mme. Nazimova during the writing of the play and, it is said, has fitted her remarkable personality with a role that will give the greatest scope possible to her extraordinary talents.

Frederick Tringello

GRECIAN THEATER.

The performances at Athens, in ancient Greece, began at dawn, and, as several pieces were produced one after the other, these performances lasted the whole day. On the days that the performances were given all work was suspended, business put off, imprisoned debtors were set free and arrests strictly prohibited. Long before sunrise thousands of people assembled, and outside of the theatre, noisy crowds of men, women and children congregated, all bent upon enjoying themselves and eager to obtain the best seats.

Many of them brought their food with them, and, in order to stimulate the enthusiasm of the people, copious quantities of fiery Greek wine were given to impecunious citizens by wily authors, who endeavored thus to buy the applause of a discriminating public.

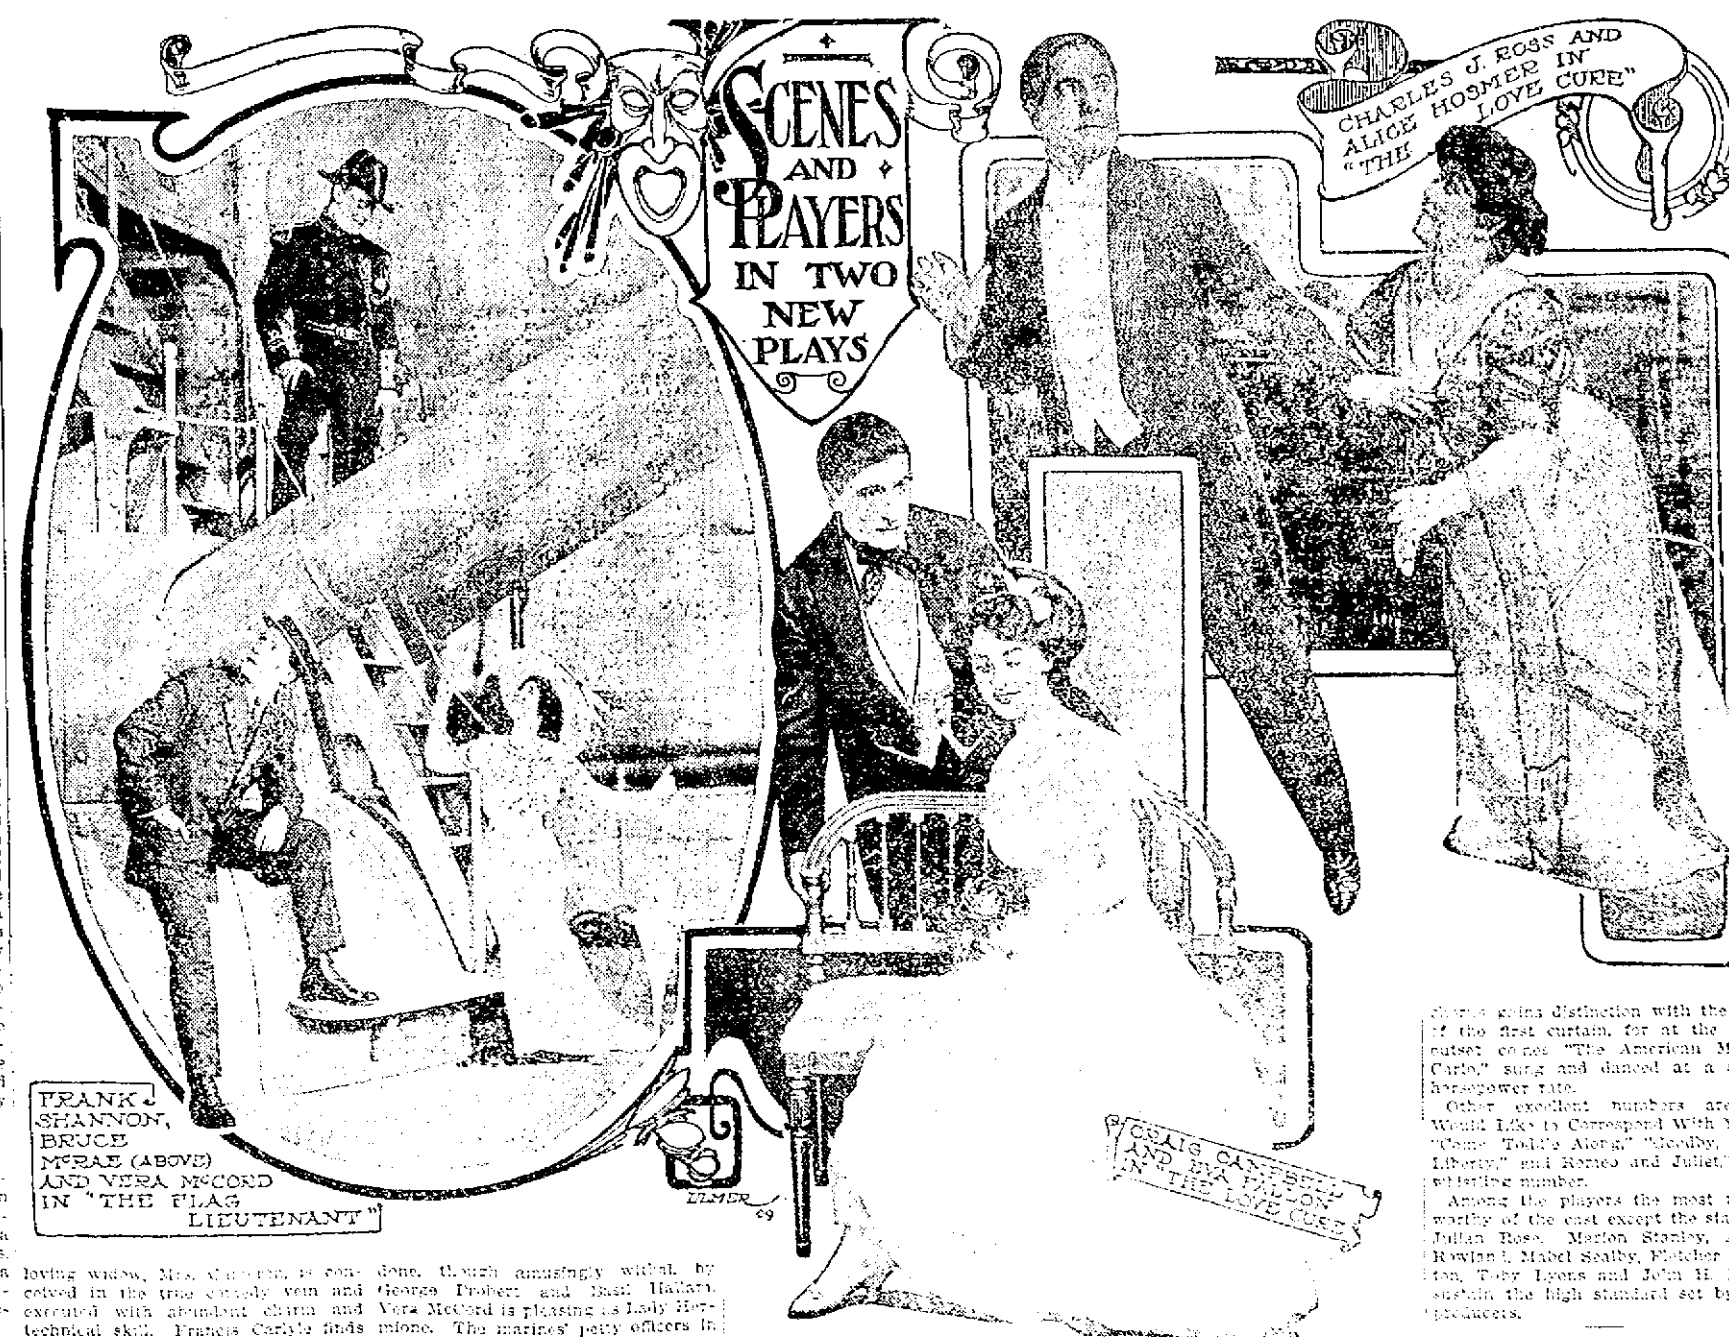

The ancient Greeks, in order to show their disapproval of a play, manifested it by kicking the benches and groaning. If the noise became so loud as to deafen every one, another play was put on. Another favorite way of showing their disapproval of an actor was by throwing stones at him. Aeschines, a famous actor of his time, very nearly lost his life on one occasion by being made the target of a stone throwing competition.

SARAH BERNHARDT IS LAME, BUT STILL BUSY.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt left Paris recently for her estate at Bella Isle, where, as usual, she passes several months. Those who saw her off at the station were amazed to find her looking so well and young, but paired to help her rapidly the malady that attacked her knee as long ago as when she was playing in "La Sorcière" had progressed. She can hardly walk a step without assistance.

Before leaving Paris she announced no less than thirteen pieces for next season. There is a sort of balance given in the number. Among them are her new version of Rostand's "La Princesse Lointaine," a new play by Jean Ichnepin entitled "La Bohémienne," Gabrielle d'Annunzio's "Amoroso," a new historic drama by Paul Hervey, "La Grande Catherine," two Sardou plays, "Jeanne d'Arc," which was done in collaboration with Eugene Morand, and "Speranza," done with Goldstein, and the "Saxons" of Gabriel Tardieu, whose "TARDU" was produced at the Odeon a year ago by Jane Hading.

The Moscow Shubert have made it known that Mme. Alla Nazimova's next play will be an entirely new one "Psyche et Eros."

FRANK SHANNON, BRUCE MRAE (ABOVE) AND VERA MCARD IN "THE FLAG LIEUTENANT"

loving widow, Mrs. Lescroart, is conceived in the true comedy vein and executed with abundant charm and technical skill. Francis Carby finds no difficulty in representing adequately the flag lieutenant's camp. Major Theiler, the vice admiral, the surgeon and the portland cement of the Campbell businessmen are excellent studies of the British service as en-done, though amusingly so, by George Frohner and Paul Hader. Vera McCard is pleasing as Lady Herby. The marines' petty officers in the attack on Crete are cleverly drawn and skillfully enacted.

"McIntyre and Heath in Hayti."

The "sleazy, lingering sensation" of being hit by a dissipated and re-

William Jerome and Jean Schwartz, who threatened to quit the Hayti. This trio have performed their first revolution as pleasant an enterprise as well and with a keen appreciation of the exigencies of the occasion.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Edward W. Bedford, a Canadian, was charged today in the Bow street court on his own confession with the murder of Ethel Kinrade at Hamilton, Ont., and remanded for a week to allow inquiries to be made into several peculiarities of the case. Bedford gave himself up yesterday. His signed confession which was read in court states that he murdered the Kinrade girl in 1905, whereas the murder occurred in 1909. The confession alleges that Bedford met a man in Toronto whose name he did not know and they went to Hamilton where his companion helped him to find the house and gave him $500 to shoot Ethel Kinrade. Another voluminous confession in the hands of the police is understood to coincide with the circumstances of the murder with the exception of date. A description of the murderer possessed by the Scotland Yard officials does not tally with Bedford.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

Ex-Senator Halley of Lawrence has been nominated by the democrats for senator. Mr. Halley has a splendid record for faithful service in the legislature and loyalty to the interests of his district. He is not swayed by prejudice of any kind and takes care always to be fair between contending parties, but when he has to take a position he has always distinguished himself by being on the right side.

WHERE FREE TRADE IS BENEFICIAL.

President Taft in one of his western speeches dilated on the advantages of free trade between the United States and the Philippines. It is agreed that the advantages on both sides would be very great but greater still would be the advantages of free trade or even of a liberal measure of reciprocity between the United States and Canada.

LAWRENCE MAYORALTY CAMPAIGN.

Down in Lawrence the campaign for mayor is to be a three cornered contest owing to the injection of a candidate on an independent ticket. Speaking of the situation, a Lawrence paper says:

"For much less than it costs to run the municipality of Lawrence now under present conditions the city could be far better served if officials were elected solely because of their fitness for the positions to which they aspire."

That is probably true and yet the tax rate of Lawrence is not as high as that of Lowell.

RHODE ISLAND DEMOCRATS ASSAIL ALDRICH.

The democrats of Rhode Island speak in no uncertain terms of the Aldrich tariff law and declare war upon the open and outrageously corrupt system of bossism maintained under Charles R. Brayton. The platform declaration on the Aldrich law and the income tax is as follows:

"We condemn the Aldrich tariff law as the most outrageously unfair tariff ever enacted by an American congress.
"We acknowledge with shame that the author of the Aldrich tariff law is a representative of this state.
"We pledge the support of every democratic member of the incoming general assembly in support of the income tax amendment."

CONFLICT OF GOOD AND EVIL.

The man or woman who commits a crime sets an example that is likely to be followed. This is noticeable especially in the manner of murders and suicides. A number of papers in England recently discussed the advisability of a league of silence on such matters but they eventually came to the conclusion that more can be done for prevention by publicity than could be done by silence. The publication of such crimes sets in motion all the machinery of law and all the agencies for the suppression of vice and crime; it gets even the churches to be more active in condemning crime and in exhorting their adherents to lead pure and upright lives.

The majority of the human race are mere imitators. Some imitate the good they see in their neighbors, while others imitate the bad they see or read of. It is the weaker minds that are swayed by impulse and suggestion in the wrong direction. It is an old saying that the descent to evil is easy—"Facilis descensus averni"—so that unless the influences for good are far greater than those for evil, the latter are likely to prevail.

HEARST VS. GAYNOR IN NEW YORK.

There are lively times ahead in the campaign for mayor in New York city. Justice Gaynor is the regular democratic candidate and is endorsed by Tammany and other organizations, with excellent prospects of success.

The campaign will be made exciting and at the same time picturesque by the presence of William R. Hearst as an independent candidate for mayor. In the past, Hearst, through his newspapers, paid the highest tributes possible to Justice Gaynor as a man of spotless character and lofty purposes. According to these same papers, Justice Gaynor was the one man in public office in New York whom corruption could not beset, whom the privileged plutocracy, as Hearst is wont to call it, could not control.

But when Justice Gaynor became a candidate for an office that Hearst himself coveted, Hearst and his papers changed their tune. Hearst, always anxious to be in the limelight, is not very particular about the method of getting there. He is an artist in keeping his name before the public. He has spent thousands in doing this, and the investment has brought him good returns in the wide publicity he has won. He would rather be abused in the public press than not mentioned at all. If he cannot secure favorable notices he is willing to accept the other kind. He is looking for notoriety and to get it he often has to sacrifice everything that looks like consistency. Consistency is not a principle in Hearst's makeup. The once was a staunch supporter of Wm. J. Bryan yet afterwards he became his bitter enemy; he was once the foremost admirer of Justice Gaynor but now he has become a candidate, Hearst has no use for him. But before the inglorious protest Hearst presented when he wanted to attack Gaynor. He said that Gaynor did not attack Tammany he, Hearst, would not run for an independent ticket. Hearst knew very well before he made that statement that Gaynor would not attack Tammany or any other set of men. Gaynor attacks what is wrong—the system rather than the men.

Justice Gaynor, it is believed, will oppose the city as it has not been aroused since Henry George conducted his campaign for mayor some years ago.

Hearst flatters himself in spite of the many failures and reverses that he was elected mayor when he ran against McClellan. He runs this time under less favorable circumstances, yet he would rather run and lose than not to run at all. He may, however, believe that he can beat Gaynor, but in this he will probably find himself mistaken. Should he be beaten, however, he will continue to run again and again until he finds either his proper level or lands in the mayor's chair.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

It is a great thing for a man to bring enthusiasm to his task, unless he undertakes to put a baby to sleep. Then, the less energy he shows, the better.

When a man says that all he asks is simple justice, you know, if you are experienced, that he expects a compliment.

When fishing for a compliment, it is a good idea always to bait your hook with a little flattery.

Ask a man who has been married for thirty years to name all the servants girls he has had in the kitchen, and watch him throw up his hands.

The idea that the country postmaster reads all the post-cards that pass through the office is wrong. Some of them are most uninteresting.

The more a man studies human nature, the less he thinks he knows about it.

The man who worries because he is losing weight is pretty sure to lose a little more.

It is hard to tell which is the most displeased, the married woman of fifty to be addressed as "Miss," or the forty-year-old maid to be addressed as "Mrs."

The man who is always kidding may not have many ardent admirers, but he generally gets the things he wants.

A boy of twelve almost never really likes to wash the dishes, and it isn't much comfort to him to think that he will get his hands clean doing it.

Sometimes a man gets the idea that he has a great head for business just because he has succeeded in borrowing $200 on a three-months' note.

An engagement has been broken off, ostensibly because she believes in Peary and he believes in Cook. As a matter of fact, both of them have been looking for six months for an excuse.

Isn't it queer that when you compare your neighbor's condition with your own, you think only of the advantages that he enjoys, and never dwell upon his drawbacks?

When a rich young man gets fascinated by the stage and gives an automobile to a leading lady, that isn't what Emerson meant by hitching one's wagon to a star.

THE BELLES OF MONTREAL.
Their gentle music softly falls
Upon the morning air.
With patient, sweet, persistent notes,
They sound the call to prayer.
Throughout the city's broad expanse
The faithful hear the call.
The sweet, harmonious hummings
Of the bells of Montreal.

And beauty fills the gray old streets
Beneath the mountain's height,
To brighten up their sombre hues
With visions of delight.
With sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks
They smile and charm all men and boys,
Who have seen them can forget
The Belles of Montreal!

The nomination of officers was one of the orders of business to come before the convention today, and it was announced that the committee which was appointed to consider the various recommendations of President Sweet and Secretary Treasurer Driscoll would report on its findings.

A matter which was expected to be taken up during the day and which elicited considerable discussion among the delegates was the address of Rev. Andrew J. Doyle of New Bedford at the special state convention in Boston on Aug. 11 last, when he is alleged to have declared that the state branch should be condemned instead of Gov. Draper in the matter of labor legislation. The subject is expected to be discussed in the afternoon's session.

At yesterday afternoon's session, President Sweet delivered his address which was as follows:

Pres. Sweet's Address
After paying tribute to Frank K. Foster of Boston and Jeremiah Mahoney of Springfield, trades union leaders who have died within the past year, President Sweet said: "We can find plenty of evidence of the great benefit the trade unions are to their members when sane methods are used and the unions are given time to develop, in spite of the fact that the country has been suffering a financial depression and the wages and conditions of the unorganized workers have been graded lower and lower. Many benefits have come to organized workers during the past year."

The list, which Pres. Sweet read, included the wage increases and better working conditions secured by all the labor unions of Massachusetts during the present year. There were more than 200 different trades, aggregating probably 100,000 men and women who secured some benefits in the last year.

The greatest and the most important strike of 1909 and one of the most industrial disputes in the history of the nation is the strike of the United States hat makers of New America, still being waged by the hat makers, the so-called "open shop" strike had been on since Jan. 29, when the hat makers refused to work under the so-called "open shop" conditions of the big hat manufacturers of the country combining, each putting up a bond of $25,000 in their effort to break the hat makers' union. Since the commencement of the strike the hat makers have succeeded in forcing about 20 of the manufacturers to open their factories under union conditions and they intend to continue the fight until the remaining manufacturers will be compelled to do likewise. The hat makers have at the present time between 1000 and 6000 members still on strike.

It is an opinion that at this time something should be said on a matter that is giving some of our international unions much concern. I speak of these international unions which are at this time fighting overseas and I refer to the fact that some of these unions are being given protection in some of the central bodies through the strike. These central bodies derive their charter and their life from the American Federation of Labor, and the A. F. of L. by its laws places the stamp of disapproval upon all secession in the ranks of organized labor. Therefore, all bodies affiliated with the A. F. of L. and having within their ranks local unions that have seceded from their international unions should at once lend their good offices in an endeavor to have these same local unions return to their international fold and persist in staying on the outside, then the central bodies having those local unions within their ranks should immediately take a stand and unsentimental. If we wish to live and prosper we must maintain discipline in our organization.

It is greatly to be regretted that such little headway is made in our state in the organization of the working men and girls workers; there is no part of our community that has greater need of the protection afforded by trade unionism than the working women and girls of our state.

I believe our demands for an anti-injunction law should be pushed with more vigor than ever and should be continued in until the injunction is confined to its proper place, and not be permitted to issue in labor disputes simply because they are labor disputes.

I believe should continue in the demand of the enactment of an employer's liability law what will give some of our people the right to work against the greed and indifference of the employer or his incompetent representatives.

I believe that we should continue in our demands for the enactment of such legislation as will restore to our unions the right to enforce their work laws of the state. It is not in violation of the laws of the state.

"And I believe that we should continue in our demand for the enactment of an honest eight hour law for all work done for or in behalf of the state, cities or towns of Massachusetts. We have just passed the law for the enforcement of the express with the express wish of the people of the state of Massachusetts as has been registered by them at the polls."

Driscoll's Report
Secretary Driscoll submitted an interesting report in which he said: "Organized labor has always fought and stood for the interest of the children's welfare. We want our children educated. We don't want fads. We want playgrounds. We want places where the children can enjoy fresh air. We want the people to interest themselves in the welfare of the child. Why not interest themselves and take up that important subject and assist to have the wage earners receive their just wages as they as we should live, and so be able to maintain our homes and support our families of great interest and assistance in maintaining and educating the child. We want the teachers to instruct, we don't want to abuse the child and against the rights of the organized laborers of the country."

"We want every child to establish municipal nurseries for the care of children where the mother is compelled to tell to maintain a home for the protection of her children, so that each child may be under proper care during the hours the mother is compelled to work and earn her home. This subject, I believe, will be taken up by the central labor unions in the state."

"Organized labor should have a representative on the various commissions, being appointed not only in the commonwealth but also by the various towns and cities of our state. It seems that in the appointment of these many commissions, especially so where labor is directly interested labor gets no recognition."

"Your legislative committee and executive committee and that should act as agent and agent at the state house beginning the month of February, in the interest of labor legislation, I am proud and there we found the corporations well represented, and there they have a great power. To the best of my ability with others we worked hard to get some of the legislation passed by the state branch of the A. F. of L. FEDERATION OF LABOR
The State Convention is in Session in Holyoke

HOLYOKE, Oct. 12.—With the consideration of the first real convention business on the day's program, the Massachusetts branch of the American Federation of Labor reconvened for the second session of its 24th annual convention in this city today. Speech-making occupied the greater part of yesterday's session, and the delegates will today found the delegates will be engaged in the regular business of the convention.

The nomination of officers was one of the orders of business to come before the convention today, and it was announced that the committee which was appointed to consider the various recommendations of President Sweet and Secretary Treasurer Driscoll would report on its findings.

A matter which was expected to be taken up during the day and which elicited considerable discussion among the delegates was the address of Rev. Andrew J. Driscoll's Report
Secretary Driscoll submitted an interesting report in which he said: "Organized labor has always fought and stood for the interest of the children's welfare. We want our children educated. We don't want fads. We want playgrounds. We want places where the children can enjoy fresh air. We want the people to interest themselves in the welfare of the child. "Organized labor should have a representative on the various commissions, being appointed not only in the commonwealth but also by the various towns and cities of our state. "Your legislative committee and executive committee and that should act as agent and agent at the state house beginning the month of February, in the interest of labor legislation, I am proud and there we found the corporations well represented, and there they have a great power. To the best of my ability with others we worked hard to get some of the legislation passed by the state branch of the A. F. of L. The members of the house would not take the senate, but the senate has the 'graveyard' and it well deserves that name for the killing of legislation, many times as feared bills in the interest of labor with their silence and powerful vote. We want our play from the labor market, we don't want party politics or politicians drawing the line on labor legislation. The Massachusetts state branch of the A. F. of L. is not bound or tied to any political party but was organized for the interest and welfare of the trade unionist in this commonwealth.

"I hope the day is not far away when legislation in the interest of the wage earners will meet with far better success."

"I know I value the sentiment of the union men of this state when I say we take exception to the abuse of the cause of labor taken by some of the state senators and representatives who presume to speak in the name of labor. Their purpose is to thwart the ends and aims of organized labor, though they profess in the promises to speak ex cathedra on the doctrines for which they presume to have sympathy, though in reality they have none."

"Politics is a subject that needs much discussion, not only by our organization but by the people. I don't want any man to join any political party, but I do want every trade unionist to take notice of the various considerations in the aim and effort to bring the wage earners together to vote for their common good that they may be successful here in the enactment of beneficial labor laws as the British trade unionists are across the water."

"The trade unionists must stand by their friends and defend their enemies. The Massachusetts state branch of A. F. of L. must always be free from political entanglement. It stands for the right of labor. And its members should be a militant influence in enforcing the rights of the working people. Let us bring about the defeat of the enemies of the trade union movement."

The legislative committee reported as follows: "The legislature of 1909 from the standpoint of labor was unsatisfactory. It seems to your committee in the organized movement continues in the legislature to defeat bills in the interests of organized labor. We believe that labor must keep its men at the state house fighting for its cause. There you will always find the paid counsel of the A. F. of L. the Master Builders' association, and various corporations of the commonwealth, opposing unitedly with their full opposition bills introduced in the interests of labor."

"Your committee makes the following recommendations for your consideration: "That the secretary send a letter to the various unions in the commonwealth to have their representatives and senators present and voting on labor bills when up for action."

"That we introduce to the legislature of 1910 a picketing bill, the fine bill, and the workman's compensation act, and that your legislative committee elected at this convention support the establishment of direct nomination of members of the legislature and all public officials in our commonwealth."

"That all organizations affiliated with the state branch give all possible assistance in behalf of bills endorsed by this committee."

"That the legislature issue a circular to be sent to the various unions of the state, requesting them to furnish your legislative committee with all information regarding accidents in their crafts and the cause, stating whether any of them could be avoided by violations of better machinery or appliances, what damages, if any, were recovered, and the loss both from the standpoint of finance and time, caused by such accidents."

"That the various central labor unions appoint a legislative committee to be created to accomplish stronger work upon bills pertaining to organized labor."

THE TARIFF ISSUE

Is Likely to Aid the Democratic Candidates in This State

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Many British-American citizens of Massachusetts, who are almost to a man republicans, are likely to bolt the party nomination this year because of the tariff issue and the failure of efforts for reciprocity with Canada. It is claimed. It looks as if Vahey and Foss would get many of their votes according to a number of those who are dissatisfied with the way things are going.

John A. Campbell of East Boston, a prominent republican, said in reply to a question as to the rumors that many British-Americans would vote the democratic ticket this year, that he had heard the rumors, but could not give a categorical answer because he had not sufficient information.

But he said he was satisfied there exists a widespread indifference and lack of political enthusiasm among the British-Americans this year, due to several causes. One, he said, was the disappointment of these people with Mayor Hibbard's administration and another was the impression which British-Americans have that the republican party has absolutely failed to keep its platform promise to revise the tariff by a substantial reduction. They feel that since the election of President Taft the control of the party has swung into the hands of the stand-pat conservatives.

Conditions Have Changed
Republicans, he said, overlooked the fact that conditions change rapidly and that the republican party, which has been the traditions and customs of the past, as if they were perpetually sacred. It is idle, he remarked, to talk of past conditions as fitted for the present. They were suited for their times only. Former legislators simply set up guide posts for a limited time and for a specific purpose, and they are out of date for present circumstances.

Mr. Campbell said, regarding a rumor that Gov. Draper had given serious offense once to the British-Americans, that the occasion was when the international club, of which he was president, dedicated its new building which cost more than $120,000. Gov. Draper was ill and Lieut. Gov. Draper was acting governor. The event was regarded by the British-Americans as of international importance and among the distinguished guests of the hour.

LAI UP 3 MONTHS WITH AN ULCER

On Ankle—It Was Very Bad and Only Got Worse Under Treatments—Cuticura Soon Healed It—Baby's Head Freed from Stubborn Scurf by Cuticura Soap.

TWO ECONOMICAL CURES BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"My case was a very bad ulcer sore on my ankle and I was laid up three months with it. I was reading an advertisement in the newspaper one day about the Cuticura Remedies so I purchased a cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and a large bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. After using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment my ulcer was healed, by washing twice daily with the soap and using the other remedies as directed. Before I used the Cuticura Remedies my sore was getting worse all the time under other treatments. Furthermore we have a baby boy here and we have found that Cuticura Soap has been a fine thing for him. He had scurf on his head and we tried every way to remove it but failed until we used the Cuticura Soap which removed it almost at once. George M. Hall, Brimston, N. Y., Dec. 24, 1908."

CURED FALLING HAIR

"Some months ago I suffered with a bad form of scalp disease. My hair was falling out and my head itched. I read about Cuticura and determined to try it. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and used them. I continued using the Cuticura Ointment on my head daily and the result was truly wonderful. I still use it occasionally and I always have Cuticura Soap on hand. The cure is complete. Mrs. Amy Gelsler, 2018 South Seventh St., Omaha, Neb., Sept. 23 and Oct. 5, 1905."

TWO NOTED CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS WHO IGNORE BOSTON EDICT

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Despite the edict of the mother church, as the First Christian Science church in Boston is known, Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, reader of the First Christian Science church of New York city, continues to occupy her position. It is believed by Christian Scientists, both in Boston and New York, that a crisis in the affairs of the organization is near at hand and that legal steps soon will be resorted to. To further complicate the situation Mrs. D. M. Gilbert, who has asserted that Mrs. Eddy is completely in control of certain of her followers and does not control and direct the affairs of the church herself, has started a new church in New York city. It is believed by Christian Scientists, both in Boston and New York, that a crisis in the affairs of the organization is near at hand and that legal steps soon will be resorted to.

FORTUNE FOR PEACE

Edwin Ginn to Leave $1,000,000 in His Will

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Edwin Ginn, the publisher, has made provision in his will that upon his death $1,000,000 shall become available for the cause of universal peace. Moreover, Mr. Ginn will contribute $50,000 annually to the peace cause during the remaining years of his life.

For several years Mr. Ginn has been at work interesting business men, and among others has found Andrew Carnegie a firm believer in the project. Mr. Carnegie is likely to give a handsome sum that may be added to the fund, Mr. Ginn says.

Mr. Ginn has labored independently of the organized peace advocates. He says: "It is my aim to unite the business men of the world in a great permanent association which shall have for its object the suppression of war. Until now men have organized to kill one another. This organization that I propose will aim to keep men from killing each other."

BRAKEMAN ROBBED

NEWBURYPORT, Oct. 12.—George E. Taylor of Boston, 25 years old, brakeman on the Newburyport night freight, which makes up here and runs as an extra to Boston over the western division of the B. & M. railroad, was knocked down last night and robbed of about $20.

A valuable watch was overlooked. He was so badly beaten that he was rendered senseless. Another railroad man found him across the track in the path of the train that was immediately due to pass.

Taylor had just gone to work after returning from a fall in which two of his ribs were broken.

Before the lecture there were suggestions by the association, consisting of James and Robert Smith and Fred Benson.

PRES. HAMILTON Says That Hazing Must be Abandoned

MEDFORD, Oct. 12.—Tufts sophomores were informed yesterday morning in Gilded chapel by President Hamilton that some forms of hazing now popular here must be abandoned at once. He stated that nearly all students have complained of some of the hazing parties annually held in the streets of Medford and Springfield.

Pres. Hamilton said special stress on the practice of sending freshmen on an extended hazing tour usually in the streets and common of Boston and away to distant cities on trains after all money and tickets had been taken from them and while they were still in ridiculous costume. Last week four first-year men, after contributing the passively to hazing by their forced antics, were hustled on board trains as they left the South station.

Two of them were put on a Peabody-bound train, but managed to jump on near Hyde park and work their way back to college hill, and the other pair journeyed beyond Quincy before they could effect an escape. President Hamilton urged that the tactics that bring the college into disrepute should be abandoned and that the health and safety of the hazed parties be protected.

This is the first time that any open criticism of the hazing methods has been made in recent years at Tufts. In 1907 some little discussion was caused over the hazing of four members of the 1910 class, but the matter calmed down without any trouble. President Hamilton's warning yesterday came as a surprise.

GEN'L OLIVER

Says That U. S. Troops Must be Fit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Acting Secretary Oliver is of the opinion that considerable misunderstanding exists as to the purpose of the war department in connection with the holding of joint maneuvers.

Gen. Oliver states that there is no intention of interfering in any way with the maneuvers that are incident to the joint encampments of the regular army and the militia such as are held every second year. But such joint maneuvers as the Boston campaign last summer would not be authorized unless the military organizations had proved themselves in their camps of instruction fit to take part and care of themselves properly, a condition which did not exist in the Massachusetts campaign.

In other words, the militiamen must first be taught to walk before they attempt to run, and the elementary instruction must first be had in the smaller blended joint encampments.

MANY PETITIONS

FOR WRITS OF CERTIORARI BEFORE SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—After a recess of more than four months and with only Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Harlan, Brewer, White, Holmes, McKenna and Day present, the supreme court of the United States yesterday began the regular term for the next 12 months. Justices Peckham and Moody were both absent on account of illness, reducing the court to unusually small proportions.

The business of the day was confined to the admission of the bar, the presentation of motions and petitions, and the dismissal of a number of cases either by stipulation or on motion of the applicants. A large number of petitions for writs of certiorari, the purpose of which was to procure the review of the supreme court of cases decided adversely by the various United States courts of appeals, were presented, among which was that of the City of Newburyport, Mass., vs. the Citizens' Savings Bank of Newburyport, N. H., involving the right of the bank to receive $25,000 worth of notes fraudulently issued by the treasurer of the city in the name of the city. It was alleged that the treasurer, one James C. Parker, issued the notes to cover up a shortage of his own, but as apparently was acting under authority of the first circuit court and the court of appeals for the first circuit found in favor of the bank.

The court took all the applications under advisement.

$10,000 VERDICT THEFT OF RING

Awarded Boy Run Over Is the Charge Against Mrs. Defoe

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Two verdicts aggregating $10,750 were rendered against the R. S. Brine transportation company in the superior court at East Cambridge yesterday afternoon.

The first suit, in which the damages sought were $10,000, was brought by Dennis Murphy, 10 years old, of Somerville, and in this suit a full verdict was brought in. The second suit was brought by the mother of the boy, Julie Murphy, in $5000. She sued for loss of services, medical attendance, etc., and the verdict in that suit was $750.

The evidence tended to show that the boy was sitting on the sidewalk on Webster avenue, Somerville, on May 19, 1908, playing in a heap of sand, when a four-horse dray, on which was a derrick, belonging to the defendant company, came along and turning in drove across the sidewalk. The wheels of the dray passed over one leg, crushing it so that amputation was necessary.

THE NESBIT CASE

The Defendant Was Not in Court

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 12.—Howard Nesbit, brother of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, who was arrested here a week ago on a charge of trying to pawn bogus jewelry, was not in the common pleas court yesterday when his case was called. His attorney asked for a continuance for a month, which the court granted.

Young Nesbit was released on $2500 bail, which was furnished by his sister, Mrs. Harry K. Thaw. If young Nesbit fails to appear at the next term of the court his bond will be forfeited. In the city court Nesbit was found guilty, but appealed his case to the common pleas court. His sister sent on his bail and afterward declared that she pawned her diamond engagement ring to get the money.

INJURED HIS HAND

Walter Murray, aged 15 years, and living at 338 Central street, while trying to put some boys out of the scenic theatre in Middlesex street, yesterday, caught the third finger of his right hand in the door and lacerated the member. He went to the Emergency hospital, where he received treatment.

A NEW MEDICAL DISCOVERY

A chemist who became possessed of the conviction that the old methods of taking internal remedies to cure skin diseases were erroneous, has, after painstaking investigations, discovered that an extract from a particular part of a well-known tree possessed superior antiseptic and curative properties, and exerted a wonderful beneficial effect on the skin tissues. It was, however, found that this valuable vegetable extract possessed such desirable qualities was difficult to compound with other ingredients necessary to present it in a form convenient to use. After further investigations and experiments a method of special treatment was devised by which this seemingly insurmountable difficulty was overcome, resulting in a unique combination of ingredients possessing to a marked degree valuable therapeutic properties, the like of which has never before been produced. This important product is known as Cadum, and is now offered to the public at a price which brings it within the reach of even the very poor. Since its recent introduction Cadum has cured numerous cases of chronic eczema, and many other unsightly, irritating, and distressing skin troubles, and this after other treatments have signally failed. Cadum stops the terrible itching of eczema at once, and begins the healing process with great application. Its action is still more remarkable in less serious skin troubles, such as rash, pimples, blotches, scaly skin, sores, itching piles, eruptions, chafings, scaly skin, blackheads, scabs, etc. Surprising results are often obtained by an overnight treatment. Many of the cures effected by Cadum may be truly described as remarkable. It is an antiseptic that destroys disease-producing germs, always inflammation, and exerts a wonderful soothing and healing influence on the skin tissues. Cadum is sold at 10c and 25c a box, by all druggists.

AS RESULT OF STRIKE IN BAKERY

The striking pie makers want their wages raised from $15 to $16 a week.
